Year; Rails Run Wild

NEW YORK, March 15.—(UP)—Wall street resumed trading in stocks and bonds today after a 9-day shutdown and stock market boomed. There also was a sharp advance in bond market and broad advances were made in the commodity markets which have opened.

It was the first 3,000,000 share day since September 22, 1932.

The Dow-Jones industrial and railroad averages soared more than 12 per cent above the March 3 final prices. The industrial average was back to January 31 levels.

Stocks jumped 3 to 11 points; bonds 2 to 8 points; curb stocks 1 to 8 points; Chicago stocks 1 to 12 points; Winnipeg wheat up 11-2 to 15-8 cents a bushel; silver futures up 16 to 110 points; hides up 80 to 118 points; rubber up 8 to 9 points; sugar up 6 points. The Chicago Board of Trade and New York Cotton Exchange were closed until tomorrow.

The opening was strong and active. Usually inactive shares appeared first while specialists worked to arrive at quotations on huge blocks of the leaders. The first stock to appear was the Calumet and Hecla. It opened at 21-8 up 1-8 point.

Soon the market got under way with a vigor unseen so far in 1932. Blocks of 1,000 to 7,500 shares, representing bunched orders appeared on the tape. Those large amounts saved the tickers from utter demoralization. As it was they soon ran 2 minutes behind.

The market quitted down somewhat toward noon, but late in the day another wave of buying swept over the list. In that last hour the tape was 3 minutes late and it was necessary to abbreviate quotations in the manner used when the market was booming, and later crashing, in 1929.

He had lived here for the past seven years following his retirement. BANKS IN SANTA ANA OPEN; PEOPLE RESPOND

(An Editorial)

Santa Ana is to be congratulated on the fact that all of the banks of the city opened this morning equally under the conditions laid down by the treasury department. This O. K. by the government, which evidences the absolute confidence of the treasury department, certainly should receive the response by the public of the same character of confidence, for it should be known that the government just now is taking no chances.

It emphasizes what The Register has been emphasizing from the beginning,—the integrity and the reliability of Santa Ana's banks.

At the time of the writing of this editorial, bank deposits were coming in, in some of the banks, as high as four to one over withdrawals, and in all of them, the deposits were far past the withdrawals.

Certainly confidence—the goal toward which we have been working, has finally been achieved.

30 KNOWN DEAD AFTER TORNADO SWEEPS SOUTH

Three Southern States Are Struck; 500 Are Hurt;
Damage Heavy

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 15.—(UP)—A tornado cut a narrow path across three states last night, leaving 30 known dead, at least 500 injured, and property damage estimated in the tens of thousands of dollars.

Relief work was concentrated today in the remote Cumberland Mountain region along the eastern Kentucky-Tennessee border, where the tornado reached its greatest fury and caused the heaviest loss of life. Eighteen of those killed were in this section, approximately 70 miles long.

Scores were homeless, sheltered in stores and public buildings, and it was feared the death toll might mount when communications were restored to isolated mountain communities.

Seven were killed in Pruden, Tenn., a mountain town 12 miles west of Cumberland Gap. At Harrogate, Tenn., three miles east of the Gap, two were killed. The tornado they apparently lifted above the earth's surface, and did not descend again until it hit Kingsport, approximately 55 miles east of Harrogate, where eight were killed.

Before reaching Pruden, the storm wrecked a section of Nashville, approximately 150 miles south of west of Cumberland Gap, killing seven and injuring more than 300. One was killed in Oswego, Tenn., a hamlet 15 miles west of Pruden.

One hundred national guardsmen were mobilized in Nashville and placed on guard duty in the devastated section of the city.

The Nashville electric light system failed temporarily and doctors in General hospital treated scores of injured by candle light. Heavy rain and hail stones reported by observers to be as large as eggs preceded and followed the tornado and handicapped the search for victims.

FRANK CORR NAMED MAYOR OF CHICAGO

CHICAGO, March 15.—(UP)—Frank J. Corr, a little known alderman just completing his first term but supported by Democratic leaders, today became Chicago's temporary mayor. He fills the vacancy created by the assassination of Anton J. Cermak.

Corr was chosen after four hours of debate between Democratic "regulars" and a coalition of ex-closers friends.

He may be Chicago's "Century of Progress Mayor" a title that meant much to Cermak and which he had hoped to have after he defeated William Hale Thompson in the mayoralty election. Politicians predicted it would be impossible to hold a special election until after the fair opened in June.

Supervisors Will Adopt Rigid Code

Board Obtains Services of Construction Expert to Make Inspections

INSPECTION of all business buildings in unincorporated areas of Orange county got under way this morning under direction of Edward M. Mahl, former construction engineer with the Santa Fe Railroad, whose compensation will be at the rate of $12.50 per day. He will furnish his own transportation.

Mahl was employed last night at a special meeting of the board of supervisors and given full power, under a resolution adopted yesterday, afternoon, to condemn buildings and order them vacated. He will be assisted by three deputies, one from the second district, one from the third and one from the fifth district. It was in those three supervisorial districts and Santa Ana the earthquake damage centered.

Following appointment of Mahl to direct inspection the board recessed until 3:30 p. m. today when they will meet with representatives of the County Planning Commission for the purpose of adopting the building code, prepared by that organization. Adoption of the building code will be termed an emergency measure to aid in rebuilding and rehabilitation of damaged areas.

The building code to be adopted this afternoon will be used by Mahl and his aides as a guide in their inspections. Supervisors George Jeffrey, John Mitchell and LeRoy Lyons are making appointments of the deputy inspectors.

The new building code, when adopted, will include more rigid requirements relative to reinforced masonry mortar and use of bond stones, it was said.

Supervisor Mitchell said that he

Deadline On Income Tax Is Advanced

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(UP)—The deadline on income tax payments has been advanced to March 31.

The 16 day respite was granted by the Treasury at the last minute to aid hard pressed taxpayers whose funds still are tied up by banking difficulties. Returns on 1932 incomes and the first quarterly tax payments were to have been due at midnight tonight.

Persons taking advantage of the extensions will be required to pay one half month's interest, at the rate of six per cent a year, on a quarter of the total tax.

On a total tax of $100 and a quarterly payment of $25, the interest would amount to only six cents.

BUSINESS IS SPIRITED ON OPENING DAY

Withdrawals Will Run But
25 Per Cent of Deposits,
Figures Divulge

SANTA ANA BANKS were doing business normally today as hundreds of confident depositors thronged banks to deposit large sums of money on the first day banks in the city were open following the national bank holiday.

All Santa Ana banks were opened this morning following receipt of orders permitting them to open without restriction.

A check made at noon today revealed that deposits amounting to three-quarters of a million dollars were placed in banks here during the first half-day of normal banking operations.

Compared to the deposits, withdrawals were light, amounting to but about one-fourth.

Gold was still being coaxed out of hiding and thousands of dollars in gold were placed in local banks in addition to large amounts deposited previously.

Banks are permitted to use their own discretion on withdrawals of cash. Officials of banks have the right to deny withdrawals of cash if it is suspected that it is to be hoarded. If large amounts are asked for, and bank officials are suspicious of hoarding, the persons withdrawing the funds must sign an affidavit before a notary public swearing that the money is not to be hoarded.

Large amounts can be withdrawn in cash or in drafts on the federal reserve board. Checks, for the first time for a number of days, were being used in Santa Ana today as a medium of exchange and for deposits in banks.

Bank officials here today expressed the belief that hoarding is on the wane and pointed to the large deposits made today as proof of the assertion.

One bank in Santa Ana paid out $25,000 to the county treasurer to use in making up county payrolls.

Another bank reported that a woman deposited a thousand-dollar bill in the bank this morning, after having been assured that

WORLD PRODUCTION OF GOLD INCREASES

GENEVA, March 15.—(UP)—World production of new gold reached the highest figure in history in 1932, still incomplete figures received by the League of Nations gold experts indicate.

When final figures are available it is believed they will show that nearly $500,000,000 dollars in new gold was dug last year. The increased value of gold—due to the fall in wholesale commodity prices—has made gold mining profitable to a degree never known before.

South Africa, which normally produces about 55 per cent of the world's gold, increased its output by approximately eight per cent last year, it is estimated here. Secret reports from Russia indicate a greater gold production than any time since the war.

Bandit Suspect Arrested; Returned To Face Charges

FORMER GRID STAR OF S. A. HELD IN JAIL

Wanted in Santa Ana and in the county for numerous holdups and for grand theft of an automobile, Donald McLaughlin, 26, former Santa Ana high school football player, was arrested in El Centro by sheriff's officers yesterday and returned to the county jail here last night.

Sheriff's Officers Merle Dean and G. F. McKelvey who returned the prisoner to Santa Ana, said he would be charged with robbery and grand theft.

His uncle, John McMillan, who is asserted to have participated with him in a series of holdups here in February, is in jail at Visalia, where he is facing a burglary charge, having been caught in the act of robbing a store. It was reported, McLaughlin is asserted to have been waiting for him in a stolen automobile at the time and seeing his uncle arrested, escaped in the car.

Leaves Trail
McLaughlin's trail was picked up several days later when he is asserted to have kidnapped a police officer of Woodland, Calif., Roy Clover, on March 1, tying and leaving him in the country. Clover had surprised him stealing gasoline from a car and while taking him to jail, McLaughlin is asserted to have pulled a pistol and forced the officer to drive him several miles out of town, where he tied and left him.

McLaughlin, who gave the name of William Graham, when he was arrested in El Centro, attempted the same trick on his captor there it was revealed here today. The officer, Tillman Daley, of the Imperial county sheriff's office, reported he arrested McLaughlin and a companion for investigation regarding the car in which they were riding.

Pulls Revolver
On the way to the police station, McLaughlin pulled a revolver and ordered Daley to drive to the country. Daley drove into the curb and in a scuffle that followed, the gun was knocked out of the hand of McLaughlin. The car which McLaughlin had at the time of his arrest was the car, police said, which was stolen from Powell Fredell, in Anaheim on the night of March 1, when McLaughlin and McMillan made their escape after holding up several stores in Santa Ana.

Herman Zabel, of the sheriff's office, said today that Orange county wanted McLaughlin for the robbery of the Dillon and Flannigan drug store at Los Alamitos on the night of February 1, when $5 was stolen; for the robbery of the Brather service station at Orange on the night of February 12, when Harold Long, the station attendant engaged in a gun battle with the bandits, driving them away, and with the robbery of the J. L. Forney service station at Tustin on the night of March 1, when $85 was taken.

MAN SUGGUMBS TO SEAL BEACH QUAKE SHOCK

Earthquake shocks of yesterday contributed to the death of a Seal Beach resident and damaged the city hall and other buildings. It was reported today by J. R. Zoeter, chief of police.

Byron Mercer, 84, of 130 Sixth street, Seal Beach, died of a heart attack yesterday. His body was removed to the Winbigger Mission Funeral home in Santa Ana. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

The city hall was loosened by yesterday's shocks, after going through the original quake practically without damage. The south wall is loosened and there are a number of cracks. The building is of tile and stucco.

The majority of Seal Beach city workers have moved their offices to other buildings.

Reports that people have been ordered out of the area around the Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation company's huge smokestack are false, Chief Zoeter said. The stack, rising 375 feet from sea level, rests on steel and concrete pillars and has gone through all the quakes without damage. It is reported. The company's buildings have been shaken but employees are still working there.

With a kitchen from March field, Riverside, being used, three meals are being served daily to citizens, explosions being feared if fires are lighted in homes. Water is being trucked in and there is no gas. Electricity was turned on today. The tricity was turned on today. The today.

FINANCIAL AID IS SOUGHT BY CITIES

LOS ANGELES, March 15. — (UP)—Millions of dollars for reconstruction were sought today for communities hard hit by the earthquake as citizens of the area raised two questions:

Why were comparatively new school buildings among the first to be destroyed?

What would have been the fate of school children had the quake occurred a few hours earlier?

Four or five major educational institutions were reduced to varying stages of ruin. In the Los Angeles city system more than 120 structures were ruined.

Modern business structures, some towering 12 stories, built at the same time, suffered only cracked plaster and cornices.

Four tremors shook the metropolitan area yesterday. Tottling walls in several districts were sent crashing to the ground. The Orange county courthouse at Santa Ana was ordered vacated because walls bulged to an alarming degree.

In one of the shocks, Mrs. Mabel Humphreys, 36, was critically injured when she was flung six stories to the ground as a bridge connecting two wings of a hotel gave way. The structure was weakened in Friday's shock.

The death list hovered around 125. Several hundred were receiving treatment for injuries. Property damage was estimated to be at least $60,000,000.

Throughout the western states American Red Cross began a campaign to raise $500,000 for relief of small home owners and others who suffered by the temblors.

The state legislature has appropriated $50,000 for emergency use. To be expended by the National Guard. Gov. James Rolph Jr., said he would ask authority to expend an additional $150,000 held in a cash surplus fund.

Charles Henderson, "dictator" over stricken Long Beach, after a meeting with emergency committees said the Red Cross would be asked to raise $45,000,000 in a nationwide drive to rehabilitate the beach city. Relaxation of reconstruction finance corporation rules to permit a loan of that amount also has been requested.

Stocks whose companies would benefit from higher commodity prices were in urgent demand on all markets. J. I. Case was carried up nearly 10 points and wide gains were made by International Harvester, and other farm equipments. Mail order shares, rose with this group. Mercantile issues generally were strong.

HOLD SERVICES AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

The regular Wednesday night mid-week service will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight in the educational building of the First Christian church. It was announced today by Rev. W. S. Buchanan, pastor of the church.

Both the educational and main church buildings have been inspected several times by competent building authorities and have been pronounced safe, the pastor said.

Regular services also will be held Sunday, the Rev. Mr. Buchanan said. Members of other local churches which are not holding services will be welcomed to the services at the Christian church tonight and Sunday.

BEER BILL IS AUGMENTED BY SENATE GROUP

Roosevelt signs the bill modifying the Volstead act.

Senator McAdoo, Dem., Calif., offered the amendment to extend the modification to wine and fruit juices.

There was no record vote on the amendment nor on final approval of the bill.

Inclusion of wine revives the argument with which capitol hill entertained itself last session regarding the palatability of 3.2 per cent wine. Some persons said wine of so low alcoholic content would not be wine at all nor would it be a satisfactory beverage.

Grape growing areas were included, however, that wine be included and it was put in.

The apple industry of the northwest led last session's lobby for legalization of 3.2 per cent fruit wines. Senator Dill, Dem., Wash., offered the amendment in the judiciary committee when the bill previously was under consideration.

House committees consistently have refused to extend the proposed modification to wine and fruit juices. The Democratic national platform specifically mentions beer but no other beverage by name. It says:

"Pending repeal, we favor immediate modification of the Volstead act to legalize the manufacture and sale of beer and other beverages of such alcoholic content as is permissible under the constitution and to provide therefor a proper and needed revenue."

F. SCOTT MCBRIDE MAKES STATEMENT

WASHINGTON, March 15.—(UP)—F. Scott McBride, head of the Anti-Saloon league, is not to be outdone by President Roosevelt's brevity on beer.

Mr. Roosevelt used only 72 words to ask congress to pass the beer bill. McBride replied with 72 words opposing it. The dry leader's statement follows:

"Legislated beer containing sufficient alcohol to create a new beverage industry would be strong enough to create countless alcoholic appetites, especially among young people.

"No government has a moral right to officially approve the manufacture and sale of a narcotic habit-forming poison.

"Beer would unbalance millions of family budgets, make millions of automobiles more dangerous, take millions from other industries, and again make the brewers the political masters of this nation."

VISITOR DIES HERE SUDDENLY TODAY

Mrs. Mildred Baldrige, of Riverside, died suddenly while at the wheel of her auto in Santa Ana early this afternoon. Mrs. Baldrige had driven over to see the wreckage caused by the earthquake and to visit relatives here. A heart attack is attributed as the cause of death, as she was conversing with a friend when she suddenly collapsed. The companion, whose name has not yet been ascertained, succeeded in getting control of the machine before anyone was injured.

The body was taken to the Harrell and Brown Funeral home, 116 West Seventeenth street.

points as did Continental Can. Other issues to rise 5 points or more included Du Pont, First National Stores, International Business Machines, International Harvester, Liggett & Myers B. Mack Truck, United Fruit and Westinghouse Electric.

Incentive for the short covering was provided by many factors, principal of which was the improvement in public psychology as a result of the clarified bank situation.

Europe was not as sanguine as America. It resumed selling in the dollar and it depreciated sharply in terms of sterling, French francs and most other European currencies.

CLOSE BUSINESS DISTRICT AFTER EIGHT O'CLOCK

The city council, in a meeting held today, requested that all persons stay out of the business district of the city after 8 p. m. tonight and every night for a few days.

"There is a great danger of looting as well as fire hazard and for the time being it will be best for persons to stay out of the business district as much as possible," said Mayor pro-tem A. C. Haenjaeger, today.

Haenjaeger was appointed mayor pro-tem during the temporary absence from the city of Mayor Paul Witmer, who is in Los Angeles and who may go to Sacramento tonight seeking funds for the city from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Haenjaeger said the police department had been instructed to stop all persons in the business district after 8 p. m. Those who have business there will be allowed to go about their business but a special appeal is made to persons who have no business in the downtown area to stay away during the next few nights.

Members of the fire department will be used to help police the streets at night, according to Haenjaeger.

FINANCIAL AID FOR SANTA ANA BEING SOUGHT

ing, together with George Raymer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce would fly to Sacramento tonight, for conference tomorrow with Governor James Rolph and Frank Jordan, secretary of state.

In the meantime, the city council, as individuals have organized the Orange County Emergency Corporation, created so that funds arriving here from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation could be handled without delay and made available for those who need it almost as soon as it comes.

Articles of incorporation have already been drawn and signed.

This action was taken by members of the board on the advice of Hamilton C. Cotton, who is being boosted for the post of controller of the currency. Cotton is in Washington, or was when members of the council wired him for advice. He suggested the forming of the emergency corporation and his advice has been carried out to the letter, it was said.

The corporation articles call for five active members and 11 on the advisory board. The five active members will be the five members of the city council. The advisory board has not been named.

With work going on in every quarter, downtown building owners by this time know what is damaged about their buildings and have men working. Hundreds of the unemployed have taken jobs in reconstruction work and with the banks opening and with today a general spirit of optimism is manifest throughout the business district.

This is added to by the fact that there have been no serious quakes during the past 24 hours. There was a severe jolt at 3:14 a. m. today which lasted for several seconds, but so far as is known no new damage was caused.

The city council held another meeting this morning at which time it heard reports to the effect that the city hall building was not safe and authorized the moving of the city's offices in the Santora Land Company building at Second and Broadway.

The offices were moved yesterday and today and today the city offices were well installed in their new quarters. The police department however is still in its temporary quarters at 117-119 East Third street and will be for several days, it was reported. Eventually it too will be in the new quarters. E. G. Warner, city councilman in charge of the city hall building said the city's offices would be in the Santora building for at least six months.

There was some talk today of abandoning the city hall building altogether and seeking new quarters for the city government, but no definite action has been taken.

MESSAGES SWAMP TELEGRAPH OFFICE

More than 500 telegrams have been rushed out of the Santa Ana office of the Western Union company since the first earthquake struck here Friday night, it was learned today.

Residents of Santa Ana, anxious to let relatives and friends in points outside of Santa Ana know that they were safe and that reports of the damage and killed and injured in the city were not as bad as painted in the east, flocked to the telegraph office to send out reassurances.

STATE BANKS OPEN OVER CALIFORNIA

SACRAMENTO, Cal., March 15.—(UP)—California's state banks reopened today as the emergency bank bill, signed by the governor last night, became effective. After 11 days of legislative struggle, the legislature finally achieved a bank measure which conforms with federal bank legislation. It empowers the state bank superintendent to appoint a conservator, if he rules any state bank should not be reopened. Banks could also issue preferred stock subscribed to by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. Banks closed prior to the bank holiday, could reopen providing permission was granted by the bank superintendent.

ECONOMY BILL IS OPPOSED IN BORAH SPEECH

through the senate today under a debate limitation. "The sole reason yet assigned for passage of this bill," he declared, "is that congress has broken down, that we have failed and cannot function, and that for that reason we should refer our power to the executive."

Recalling a speech yesterday in which Senator Peas, repn., O., declared congress could not economize, Borah declared:

"The opposition has come from the executive department all through this long fight for economy. Now the senator says one of the most essential bodies in the government has broken down. 'I maintain the record will show the real point of extravagance in this government, the place where money is demanded, is in the executive department.'"

"The 26 commissions and bureaucratic creations of the last few years have not been on the initiative of congress. They have been urged by the executive departments, and these expenditures are the real source of extravagance and of the great burden on the taxpayers. The most extravagant government ever created by the mind of man is a bureaucracy."

Borah charged that responsibility for vast federal payments to veterans rested with former President Harding. "When I opposed the bonus I was called to the White House and advised that opposition would be ruinous to the Republican party—it was Mr. Harding that I talked to."

Senator Reed, Repn., Pa., jumped up and said both President

Harding and President Coolidge had "voted every bonus sent to them."

"It is an open secret why they did it," Borah replied. Senator Robinson, Dem., Ark., asked him what he meant.

"Mr. Mellon was absolutely opposed to it and said he would not remain in the cabinet if it were signed," Borah replied.

"Mr. Mellon has been the victim of more open secrets than any other man in the United States," Reed interposed.

"Only today I received a letter saying it was reported that Mr. Mellon recently had exported $5,000,000 in gold to himself in London and that he didn't dare return to the United States. I am informed by persons who know that Mr. Mellon did not export $5,000,000 in gold to himself and the answer to the rest of it is that he is sailing today or tomorrow for home."

Congregational Service Changed

The Rev. Perry F. Schrock, minister of the First Congregational church, announced today that the Study Dinner scheduled for tonight will not be held at the church this evening.

In place of the dinner meeting there will be a service at his home, 205 West Twentieth street. At this service Prog. E. M. Nealey will continue his talks on "The History of Philosophy for the Layman" which he has been giving on Wednesday evenings at the church.

The Rev. Mr. Schrock will conduct a devotional service at 7:30 o'clock. The service was announced as being helpful and anyone who wishes to attend will be welcome.

Local Briefs

Herbert H. Ramm, 24, of Anaheim, and Lora Mae Robertson, 19, of Huntington Park, have applied for a marriage license in Riverside.

Because the Green Cat cafe had not opened today for business, the Orange County Breakfast club at Santa Ana will not meet tomorrow morning, according to an announcement made today by Claude McDowell, president of the club.

Member of the Santa Ana city council have been advised of a meeting of the Orange County League of Municipalities to be held at 7:30 p. m. Thursday at Orange. All members of the local board expect to attend.

Mrs. Felix Aubuchon of Santa Ana received word yesterday of the death of her sister, Mrs. B. F. McCrairy, who died yesterday at the home of her daughter in Muskogee, Oklahoma. Mrs. McCrairy had many friends here, having spent three summers in Southern California.

The benefit dance to be staged for Santa Ana telephone girls, scheduled to be held in the Masonic temple tomorrow night, has been postponed until a later date, it was announced today by Mrs. E. Faris, who is in charge of the event. The dance will be held sometime in the future.

While the Ebell club building has been pronounced uninjured and safe, and permission has been granted to assemble there, the Calvary church prayer meeting scheduled for tonight will be omitted, it was announced today.

No services will be held in the First Presbyterian church tonight, it was announced today from the church office. The church night service scheduled for tonight will not be held.

Because of the fact that Ebell Day Nursery at 610 Garfield street, houses little children whose mothers are busy during the day, an especially careful and detailed examination was made of the building. Today the inspectors notified the Ebell Day Nursery board through its chairman, Mrs. Lena Gulick Hewitt, that the building was absolutely safe, and authorized its opening at once for the convenience of its patrons.

The Comus club has postponed its dance, scheduled for tomorrow night, until Thursday, March 23, according to announcement made today by J. Riley Huber. The dance will be held in the American Legion hall at Orange.

Paul Bailey, 311 East Washington avenue, was in Riverside today.

Frank Lansdown, Santa Ana architect and Jules Markel, Santa Ana contractor, were appointed this morning as inspectors to give each of the school buildings of the city a thorough check before the opening of school Monday morning. The appointments were made by a committee from the board of education named at a meeting held last night at the board of education building following a motion made by W. M. Burke that such inspectors be secured.

Business Manager Geo. Newcom reported to the board that reports on conditions of the schools were being filed at the city building inspector's office and said that up until last night but two had been turned in by city inspectors. These were on the McKinley and Franklin schools. He stated that the entrance to the Roosevelt building was wrecked and would have to be replaced.

The inspection made by Newcom indicated he said, that little damage had been done to any of the school buildings. The Wilhard building has sustained one small crack, the Julia Lathrop is intact and nearly the entire list of grammar schools did not suffer any damage at all. Plaster cracked off the high school and junior college walls, a crack in the shops and a small amount of damage in the science building was observed by Newcom, who told board members he believed the gym to be in fine shape and the new cafeteria unhurt.

The inspection by the two men selected, is to be in addition to the city inspection and the inspectors are to be deputized by city authorities, it was brought out. Frank Henderson, city superintendent of schools urged expediency in the matter of the inspection which will give the board of education a clean bill of health. George Wells appointed Newcom, Rolla Hayes and Burke as a committee to select the inspectors.

GARDEN GROVE TO SEEK R. F. C. BUILDING LOAN

Application for a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation will be sought by Garden Grove, it was decided at a meeting of the Garden Grove Chamber of Commerce last night, with damage caused by the earthquake the principal topic.

President Charles L. Lake appointed two committees. One, consisting of Leonard Schauer, Harry Lake, William B. Brady, Henry Johnson and Vernon King, will make a survey of the earthquake damage and also make suggestions for the widening of streets. The other, consisting of Frank Monroe, Dr. C. C. Violett and Supervisor John C. Mitchell, will attend to the application for a R. F. C. loan.

According to Lake, the Citizens Bank building is the only business building in Garden Grove that was not damaged. The majority will have to be rebuilt, he said. The First National bank is using the Citizens' block, which was unoccupied at the time.

Garden Grove schools apparently escaped with slight damage, it was stated at the meeting. Inspectors employed by the county are scheduled to come to Garden Grove at once and application for the R. F. C. loan will be made after their report is made. A vote of thanks was given the American Legion post, fire department, Boy Scouts and others who aided the community during the earthquake.

SEND AID TO BEACH CITY SUFFERERS

Doing their utmost to relieve suffering in Long Beach, where the earthquakes caused damage far more extensive than in Santa Ana, officials of the Santa Ana Salvation Army chapter have been aiding in the relief work. Yesterday two truck loads of blankets and supplies were sent to Long Beach from Santa Ana by the Salvation Army, according to Major F. Schute, who is in charge of the local organization. There is still a need for supplies, clothing and food for a number of families from Long Beach which have taken refuge here, Major Schute said.

SHE TOOK NO CHANCES
BOSTON.—People may laugh at superstition, but not Mrs. Thelma L. Morrell. The other day in probate court Mrs. Morrell was stepping onto the witness stand in her suit for divorce from Gerald V. Morrell, when she dropped her glove. Looking at the glove, she said: "I don't like to pick it up. It's supposed to be bad luck to pick up your own glove." Her attorney quickly stooped and picked up the glove and returned it to its owner. Mrs. Morrell won her case.

SAFETY ORDERS ISSUED TODAY BY CITY BUILDING INSPECTOR

In the first public statement made since the first shock of the earthquake was felt in Santa Ana, Building Inspector S. I. Preble today called the attention of Santa Ana residents to safety measures and told them what to do in making contemplated repairs to buildings. The complete statement follows:

COURT HOUSE REPAIRS TAKE ABOUT 60 DAYS

According to Supervisor W. C. Jerome the county courthouse is safe up to the second story, and the second story and roof can be made safe with a minimum expenditure.

The statement was issued by Jerome following an inspection of the building by a committee of contractors this morning. An official inspection by a deputy from the state department of public works will be made within a short time.

According to Jerome the committee reported after inspecting the building, that the major portion of the brick work above the first story can be utilized in repairing the building. It probably will be necessary to remove the cupola from the roof and to re-anchor the roof of the building. Jerome predicted that the building will be ready for occupancy again within 60 days.

Following the quake at 11:05 a. m. yesterday which caused the northeast and southeast walls of the building to buckle and bow, the building was declared unsafe for occupancy and all offices ordered out.

The county clerk's office has been moved to the office of the county surveyor and highway superintendent in the court house annex. The assessor's office opened for business today in the Y. M. C. A. Constables for Santa Ana township were moved into the office of the tax collector in the hall of records. Over in the annex the probation office was moved from the third floor to the main floor to occupy quarters in the county library and the office of County School Superintendent Ray Adkinson was moved into the purchasing department. The supervisors are using the Chamber of Commerce directors' room for meetings.

ESCAPES DEATH AS TRUCK OVERTURNS

Pinned underneath when the truck in which he was riding blew a tire and overturned near Crystal Cove at 8 o'clock this morning, Charles H. Tifal, of San Diego, had a narrow escape from death when the machine caught fire.

The driver, Fred L. Cooper, of Escondido, and a companion managed to release Tifal before the flames reached him. His right wrist was partly severed and his arm fractured. Following first aid treatment at the Laguna Beach hospital, Tifal was taken to San Diego. The men were on their way to Long Beach at the time.

MORE SANTA ANA NURSES TO BEACH

Answering another call sent out for nurses at Long Beach hospital, 15 Santa Ana nurses offered their services and were sent to the stricken city for duty last night, all going on duty at midnight.

The nurses gathered at 10th and Broadway here and were taken to Long Beach in a bus sent here for them. They were: Misses Pauline Thomas, Ann Keane, Katherine Smets, Mrs. Shellhouse, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Rowland, Misses Gates, Griggs, Covey, Salter, Jennifer, M. Smith and Mrs. Noe, Mrs. Grace Webb and Mrs. Ellen Smith.

SUPERVISORS SEND WIRE ON VET PENSIONS

Acting in compliance with the request of representatives of veterans' organizations in the county, the supervisors late yesterday afternoon sent a telegram to State Senator Nelson T. Edwards, Assemblyman Craig and U. T. Urging consideration of the proposal of President Roosevelt to materially reduce compensation and pensions paid veterans.

The telegram declared: "Understand legislative considering Veterans' Legislation now pending in Congress. Many organizations here called our attention to danger of additional burden of charity care on part of counties. Twenty-five per cent of disabled veterans now residents of California. Suggest you give this your careful and earnest consideration."

Heads of veteran organizations appearing before the supervisors yesterday pointed out that curtailment of pensions and disability pay now coming to the veterans will increase the charity burden of the state and county. Harry Edwards, head of the county Veterans' Bureau informed the board that if the Roosevelt program is carried out, 900 veterans, heads of families, will be deprived of their only income and will have to be cared for by the county.

BAPTIST BOARD TO CONSIDER REPAIRS

Announcement was made today that the advisory board of the First Baptist church will meet at 7 p. m. tonight in the parsonage at 1018 Spurgeon street. This meeting is called for the purpose of deciding about repairs to the building and determining a policy for future meetings of the church while the building is undergoing repairs.

According to the Rev. Harry Evan Owings, pastor of the church, damages to the building were not so serious as at first reported. He said that the interior of the building was not damaged and that not a window had even been cracked. The only damage done, as far as can be learned, was when the fire wall fell at the first shake, he said.

MANY BUSINESS HOUSES HERE OPENED AGAIN

Seventeen business firms were doing business along Fourth and Main streets today and six more will be open by tomorrow morning, according to a check made today by A. Cavalli, manager of the Santa Ana Merchants association. Many other merchants whose buildings were hurt by the earthquake will make every effort to reopen by Saturday or Monday, it was learned.

Streets of the city are being cleaned of debris rapidly and shoppers will be able to go inside most of the buildings on Fourth street tomorrow, Cavalli said. There are still buildings which cannot be opened within a week and many others will have to wait for a survey and check of the buildings in which they are located by engineers and inspectors before they are granted permission to open.

There are still many men employed by contractors who do not live in Santa Ana, but just as fast as the situation can be rectified they will be replaced by local men," Cavalli said. "One big building job is being held up pending the assurance of local men for work on the construction."

SUPERIOR COURTS RE-OPEN FRIDAY

It is expected that the three departments of superior court will resume functioning Friday. Department three, under Presiding Judge G. K. Seovel, will continue in regular quarters in the second floor of the Hall of Records building. Department one, Judge H. G. Ames, and department two, Judge James L. Allen, will be in session in the recreation rooms of the Spurgeon Memorial church, corner of Church street and Broadway.

DAMAGE NOMINAL AT LARGEST BUILDING

Repair of all damages to the First National Bank building including redecorating, will cost not more than $1000 according to a statement issued today by A. J. Cruickshank, president of the bank.

It was rumored about the county this morning that the bank building had collapsed during the night, Cruickshank said this morning, and declared that the building had been thoroughly inspected and all elevators have been thoroughly checked by by engineers and architects from Santa Barbara. Elevators were not even out of line, it was reported. It was these engineers and architects who fixed the approximate cost of repairing damage done by the quakes.

Umbrellas of asbestos are being used by German firemen to ward off flames shooting out from burning buildings.

UNDERWRITERS' AGENTS COMING TO SANTA ANA

A number of inspectors representing the National Board of Fire Underwriters will be here late today and tomorrow inspecting buildings and new construction work.

They were ordered here by Charles H. Lum, assistant general manager of the national board, after an interview was held yesterday afternoon between Lum and former Fire Marshal Boyd Sleeper and Fire Marshal Elmer Gates at Lum's Los Angeles office. The inspectors will come here from San Francisco.

Their purpose in inspecting the city, Sleeper pointed out was to see that the fire dangers were eliminated in buildings which were being reconstructed.

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 20 years, and Calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, just a healing, soothing vegetable laxative safe and pleasant.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

C. S. Crookshank, of the Santa Ana Building and Loan association, was elected chairman of the Debt and Tax Conciliation committee at the organization meeting of that group Monday night. The meeting scheduled for Ketter's cafe was transferred to the Chamber of Commerce building following earthquake which closed the business district. R. D. Flaherty was elected secretary of the organization.

Representatives of the various organizations co-operating in formation of the committee have been designated as members of the group. Members of the committee are: W. C. Jerome, board of supervisors; H. H. Hale, Associated Chambers of Commerce; S. W. Stanley, Orange County Farm Bureau; Ben Tarver, Orange County Bar association; William Iverson and Glenn Young, American Legion, and George Waterman, Costa Mesa Taxpayers' association.

Members of the organization instructed the chairman and secretary Monday night to formulate a plan under which the organization can function. When this plan has been completed a meeting of the organization will be called for the purpose of approving the program.

HERE AND THERE IN THE WAKE OF THE 'QUAKE

"Pop" Hoyle, baptized Norman, surveyed himself with much satisfaction on Sunday morning in his home, 1425 Durant street. He had donned his best "bib and tucker," even put on his last Christmas tie, and was prepared to talk the earthquake over at the Santa Ana Country club restaurant, perfect even though his inward calm was still a bit ruffled. Dashing to his mirror for a last fond look at himself he was horrified to find his genial facial features struggling a smile through a half-inch beard that had been sprouting since Thursday. A four-some had to wait.

Sauerkraut with spare-ribs is okay, but the tasty German menu isn't so good with underwear, so says one of Santa Ana's butchers. Just as the quake came, said butcher was instantly immersed with a huge jar of sauerkraut and not one part of his apparel escaped the deluge, even his b.v.d's.

When the quake came Mrs. Constance Twist's pet cat was alone in the house, 2121 North Broadway. Returning home afterwards to find her pet Mrs. Twist thought the feline had "at melted into the air when, after searching ceaselessly for more than an hour, she spied the tip of Pussy's tail protruding from the springs of a davenport. After a no easy task of removing the cat from the springs the animal headed straight through a screen door and has since been in hiding.

Dr. Willis P. Baker's remarkable canary that has in the past done much to entertain the doctor's patients in his office, 315 West Third street, is no more. It escaped during the earthquake.

In reply to an anguished query from an aunt in Bismark, N. D., Mr. and Mrs. Frank Mathews, 317 South Flower street, sought the aid of Rodney Engle, amateur radio man, living on East Santa Clara street. With his "ham" sending set he radioed for a pickup in or around Bismark. Another amateur radio chap in Fredericks, Wis., caught his signal and signaled that he would relay the message to the Bismark party either by radio or wire.

They're telling a story down at Huntington Beach about a colored man who was taking a bath when the Big Event occurred.

He did not hesitate an instant. He ran right out of his house "as was."

A few minutes elapsed before he realized his predicament. Then he ventured back into his residence, blushing a rich black. About that time the second shock shook his abode to the heels, and he dashed outside again, grasping the first article of clothing he saw.

It was a straw hat.

Here's a fish story—and a goldfish story at that. One of the prized possessions at the Knox and Stout hardware establishment at 213 East Fourth street—formerly S. Hill and Son—is a bowl of goldfish, three goldfish to be exact.

During the excitement of the big shiver, nobody thought to carry the bowl out of the building but when the excitement began to subside an employee went to their rescue. He found the goldfish had been splashed clear out of their bowl and were flopping helplessly on a table.

Tender hands put the little fellows "back home." They are now doing as well as ever, thank you. But it wasn't a pretty kettle of fish for a while.

Frank L. Purinton, former Santa Ana mayor, and Mrs. Purinton had a narrow escape during the big quake.

They were sitting in their automobile, which was parked on West Third street near the corner of Sycamore street.

When the machine began to cut dikes during the disturbance, Mr. and Mrs. Purinton departed—just before a shower of bricks from the top of the Sycamore building bashed in the top of the ex-mayor's car.

Mrs. Mabel Head, Garden Grove postmistress, is handing out mail, selling stamps, registering letters, and continuing the varied duties of the post office in improvised quarters in the Pacific Electric depot. Mrs. Head had just locked the office safe preparatory to closing for the night when the shock came Friday evening. She dashed from the building and was thrown on a pile of fallen bricks from which she was dragged to safety just in time to be saved from being covered with a second downpour of bricks and plaster. She is unhurt except for minor bruises and scratches.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Midek were unable to understand the actions of their pet monkey Friday afternoon. The little fellow is kept in the garden to the rear of the Midek home, 413 East

Walnut street, and about 3 o'clock that afternoon he set up an unholy chattering and restless jumping and down that no attention on the part of his owners could quiet. The Mideks are still wondering how the monkey knew what was coming.

Marshall Harpols, 414 East Walnut street, has had enough earthquakes to do him the rest of his natural life, he declares. Harpols was in Long Beach that day, working in a theater on the Pike when the shock came. He stood in a doorway and watched the destruction, then started down town, reaching the Imperial theater just in time to see the assistant manager killed. This was the death of a hero however, as the young man had aided half a hundred theater patrons to safety, getting out the last one in the building before he himself sought the open only to be crushed by falling masonry.

Santa Ana citizens were eating their eggs with plaster Saturday morning—and liking it. Our sleuths reports that most of the eggs were cooked out of doors.

The next rumble out of those San Pedro guns will send the local citizens scurrying into the streets with umbrellas to shed the passing brick.

Santa Ana housewives were unanimously lugubrious Saturday morning in declaring that out of a raft of possible knick knacks, only their most treasured possessions were destroyed. European importations were first choice with the earthquake, with art treasures and chinaware coming next, they reported. In one instance an entire shelf bowed over, carrying with it the home's complete stock of table service.

Gossip of the sidewalk: a couple arrived Friday from the Middle West; paced the streets all night, and are leaving tomorrow—"Sunny California!"

In a world of turmoil and confusion we tender the following morsel of comfort: you can count on your jigsaw puzzle. Eyewitnesses, during Friday night's upheaval observed half-worked jigsaws in the street and were happy to report that the entire picture did not move half an inch.

Happy the brick-layer in a world of earthquakes. The mason has come into his own.

With parking space restricted (for the sane) to wide open spaces, we picked out a cagey spot under a budding apple tree. "Now listen, apples . . ."

The line-up down at First and Main streets early Saturday morning resembled an American custom hold-up. A mere matter of passes.

Among the countless acts of mercy, was one by which the weary, hungry news room staff of the Register benefitted Saturday editorial offices were transferred from the second floor to the first floor of the Register building, and there everyone was so busy that scant thought was given to such prosaic matters as eating. But Major F. Schute of the Salvation Army barracks next door, recognized signs of strain, and with that generosity for which the Army is noted, appeared on the scene with great pots full of amber coffee, a can of cream and an assortment of cups.

Claud McDowell, manager of the Weber Baking company on North Main street was one of the busiest men in the county following the quake. His plant worked 24 hours daily until last night and during that time turned out 22,000 loaves of bread, which were delivered in 18 trucks to the stricken area in Long Beach. This in addition to taking care of the regular trade.

The Forky and Roper clocks have met their master in a time-piece owned by Mrs. T. E. C. Hilligoss of Garden Grove. Mrs. Hilligoss writes that she owns a clock which has possessed every virtue over a period of many years. The earthquake affected it in only one particular: it is now running backward. Incidentally she claims it is still keeping perfect time—in its own peculiar way.

C. R. Stauffer, 1800 Spurgeon street, will stake his 200 pounds against anything but an earthquake. Working yesterday in an attic three feet high in the Masonic temple tower, Stauffer experienced the 11:05 a.m. tremor in an unhappy position. While hardly affected externally, Stauffer found the interior disturbance embarrassing—and promptly sought his home and bed, together with his fellow worker, Edgar Peak, similarly affected. Both men are reported holding out for seven quakeless days before guaranteeing a return to "that clock pendulum."

A report by police of a dearth of burglaries during the past week end strengthens their theory that this is no day for the second story men.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Robinson, 1802 Spurgeon street, turned Good Samaritans Monday, motoring to the El Modena grade with meat supplies rescued from the surplus served the Santa Ana guards at Birch park. The Santa Ana bearers of carnivorous cheer found a virtual colony of Mexicans, fled from Long Beach, established on the grade and suffering from hunger. The Robinsons insist there are 50 women and children—count 'em.

Anent the same family of Robinsons: Mr. and Mrs. Eugene are puzzling over the unfeeling behavior of their black cat, aged nine, which disappeared immediately after the earthquake Friday evening and failed to show up for meals. The Robinsons, remembering the cat's advanced age, suspected arterio sclerosis, until they learned that all the cats in the neighborhood had vanished at the same time. Sunday night the Robinsons fed, last of a succession of prodigal pets, slunk home to a tardy supper, sulked till midnight—and disappeared until dusk Monday. The Robinsons are taking it philosophically: "No doubt earthquakes mean more business for black cats," they quip.

At last the Santa Ana river bed is full—(of earthquake refugees).

An unusual collection of some 15 pitchers, accumulated over a period of 25-30 years by Mrs. Earl S. Morrow, 1424 Spurgeon street, was almost entirely destroyed by the first quake, she discovered in a survey Friday evening. But the earthquake missed one glorious opportunity: an English china pitcher, 150 years old, which had been in her family for generations, was untouched.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Kramer, 944 West Myrtle street, can match the Morrow story. The owners of a rose-decorated Dresden vase of equal age: 150 years, the Kramers' first thought at the time of the quake was to stay open for business as usual. They still have the best town in California," It was signed by Kelley.

Weisseman's China store on Fourth street suffered damage to merchandise amounting to not more than $300, according to a check made today by Carl Weisseman, proprietor. Most of breakage occurred in the stock room. The main part of the store was damaged but slightly.

It takes an earthquake to get around a landlady, according to two Santa Ana high school teachers, Miss Levenia Scott and Miss Mabel Miller, who were residing in a Balboa Beach apartment at the time of the earthquake. Ordered to leave the building when a tidal wave rumor was broadcast, the Santa Ana teachers decided to evacuate bag and baggage and looked around for their landlady. But the landlady, out looking for tidal waves, never suspected an imminent cash payment and missed her clients. Neither teacher is said to have pursued the search with enthusiasm.

They are telling a beautiful story about a Long Beach woman who sped downstairs when the quake shook her home, leaving behind a purse containing $500. Realizing her loss upon reaching the street, the woman rushed frantically back, removed a $5 bill and returned to safety, leaving the earthquake a tidy commission of $495.

Mrs. Etta D. Sweet, 807 South Parton street, is taking a healthy pride in her chimney nowadays. When the quake hit her home it treated her chimney with gentlemanly consideration, heaving all around the structure and removing exactly one brick. The thought of that brick is a great solace to Mrs. Sweet, who is the first to admit she got a "lucky break."

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Miller, 805 South Birch street, talking Tuesday with a man from Compton, heard described a miraculous incident to which he had been eyewitness: The Compton man declared that, working Monday morning with the reconstruction of a damaged building, he and his fellow aids were about to see a woman, who had been trapped under the structure, walk out apparently uninjured. The shock and subsequent lack of nourishment proved fatal, however, and he said she had succumbed later in a hospital.

And then have you heard of the incident probably duplicated in many instances, of the two Santa Ana women who called at the home of a neighbor and remained in her living room, in formal visiting attire of hats, coats and gloves, throughout Friday night? Probably the longest social call on record.

970 COWS HAVE AVERAGE OF 938 POUNDS OF MILK

BY W. M. GORY
(Assistant Farm Advisor)

The February summary of dairy herd production records of the Orange County Cattle Raisers' association shows 1013 cows in the association, with 970 tested in the month.

They averaged 938 pounds of milk and 39.4 pounds of butterfat. This is an average of 2.2 pounds greater than for the same month of last year. The average test showed 4.2 per cent butterfat with 453 cows producing 40 or more pounds of butterfat in the month. Forty-four cows were culled out as being unprofitable producers. Herds generally are being culled more closely since the decline in butter price. This close grading has resulted in raising the herd averages with a decrease in the total production.

In the cow competition classes, Peter DeBoer, of Garden Grove, had high average in herds under 35 cows, with an average of 48.3 pounds of butterfat. E. A. Wakeham, Garden Grove, was second with a herd average of 40 pounds of butterfat, and Fred Day, Garden Grove, was second with 44.3 pounds of butterfat.

In herds of 35 to 65 cows, Deloe Patterson, Santa Ana, was high with an average of 47 pounds of butterfat, and Fred Day, Garden Grove, was second with 44.3 pounds of butterfat.

The high average herds of 65 cows and over went to the R. F. Hazard dairy, Midway City, with 43.2 pounds of butterfat, and Otto Folkerets, Talbert, second with 41.4 pounds of butterfat.

High cow was No. 45 in the Daisy View Holstein farm, owned by A. F. Walker, Midway City, with a total of 1613 pounds of milk and 98.8 pounds of butterfat. No. 163 in the Aliso dairy, owned by the Segerstrom brothers, Santa Ana, was second with 1922 pounds of milk and 94.1 pounds of butterfat.

The high five cows were owned by the Segerstrom brothers, averaging 2100 pounds of milk and 80.4 pounds of butterfat. Second high five were owned by R. F. Hazard, with an average of 1581 pounds of milk and 80.1 pounds of butterfat.

BOXING'S GREATEST PROMOTION WAR NEAR

VAUGHANS GIVE PIRATES NEW BROTHER ACT

With a crop of hustling rookies added to the ranks, the Pittsburgh Pirates are preparing with confidence for the National league pennant drive.

Two sets of brothers now with the Bucs probably are visualizing the bunting unfurled over their home ballfield. They are, left to right, Kenneth Vaughan, regular outfielder; Paul Waner, outfielder; Floyd Vaughan, regular shortstop, and Lloyd Waner, outfielder.

FIVE PERSONAL FEUDS FEATURE INDOOR GAMES

By JACK CUDDY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, March 15.—(UP)—Five personal track feuds will be settled tonight at Madison Square Garden as the indoor track season reaches its grand finale.

More than 16,000 fans are expected to swarm into the Garden to see these rivalries fought out:

- (1) Gene Venzke vs. Glenn Cunningham in the Columbia mile;
- (2) Emmett Toppino vs. Ralph Metcalfe in the 60-yard dash;
- (3) Joe McCluskey vs. Paul Kanaly in the two-mile run;
- (4) Jim Bausch vs. Barney Berlinger in the septathlon, and
- (5) George Spitz vs. Howard Spencer in the high jump.

Cunningham, University of Kansas, and Venzke, University of Pennsylvania freshman, who have provided most of the thrills of the current season, will have their last chance to beat Venzke's indoor mile record of 4:10.

Cunningham noted out Venzke twice over the mile route this winter. Gene unexpectedly turned tables on him by winning the National 1500-meter championship in a sensational finish. Both fell to the boards exhausted at the tape. Cunningham is the favorite to-night.

The 60-yard sprint offers Toppino a chance to prove the supremacy he claims over Metcalfe who dethroned Toppino by a scant inch as national 60-meter champion.

The two-mile will give McCluskey a chance to redeem his only indoor defeat of two seasons when he meets Kanaly, son of the Yale track coach. Young Kanaly conquered the National and Intercollegiate two-mile champion in the New York A. C. meet in 9:13.2, the fastest two miles in two seasons.

Spitz again will match his high jumping ability with Howard Spencer, Geneva Negro. In their last meeting Spencer cleared 6 feet 7 1/4 inches, and Spitz 6 feet 8 1/4, the second highest mark ever attained.

While these events are in progress, the recently developed athletic animosities between the old master, Berlinger of the Penn A. C., and Jim Bausch of Kansas City, Olympic decathlon champion, will flare out in the septathlon.

Concluding the hearing at which witnesses testified they were unable to gain admittance to Seals stadium or were forced to purchase higher price tickets, Committee Chairman Andrew Gallagher asked his colleagues to find George Putnam, the promoter, and Matchmaker Ancl Hoffman, guilty of neglect. He also recommended that the state athletic commission be asked to suspend the club's fight permit for not less than three years.

In closing the promoters' defense, Attorney Raymond Schubert asserted no testimony was produced, affixing responsibility on his client.

The committee took the case under advisement.

CARNERA BRUISED IN ITALIAN AUTO CRASH

BOLOGNA, Italy, March 15.—(UP)—Primo Carnera, Italian contender for the World's heavyweight boxing championship, today was nursing minor head injuries, suffered when a motor car in which he was riding burst a tire and overturned.

The chauffeur was severely injured. Carnera picked up the driver, placed a new tire on the automobile and drove to a hospital. The accident occurred near Casarica, between Pados and Udine.

Arizmendi Choice In S. F. Ring Bout

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15.—(UP)—Baby Arizmendi, Mexican aspirant to top featherweight honors, ruled a heavy favorite today to score a second victory over Young Tommy, Filipino bantam, in a scheduled 10-round bout here tonight.

Tommy dropped a decision to Arizmendi several months ago in a Los Angeles bout which drew a $11,500 gate. A sizable turnout was promised for their return engagement.

THE GREAT MAN WORKS OUT

WEST WINDS

Here and There in Local Sport

By EDDIE WEST

Between shakes: Bill Peterson, first string pitcher for the University of California last year, is out of baseball temporarily with a broken arm, but is considered a striking prospect in more ways than one, and probably will get a chance with a Coast league club as soon as he leaves college.

With these players as a backbone, Fullerton won three Southern California prep baseball championships during the late twenties.

A little bit about this and that: Brea-Olinda Hi will give Santa Juan Capistrano all it wants next basketball time. Coach Otis Hornaday retains seven lettermen from 1933's strong lineup: Thompson, Grant, Slayton, Parodi, Cannon, Zerbe and Huddleston.

Thompson was the Orange Empire's high scorer. Coach Bill Cole is free wheelin' on crutches these days. He sprained his ankle falling down a flight of stairs at Tustin Hi—but it happened before the earthquake.

Believing that familiarity with the old master will broaden his ever increasing talents, Fullerton Floyd Vaughan will room this season with Hans Wagner, immortal Pittsburgh shortstop, now coach of the club.

Pure Gold Distributing company has purchased the Riverside night ball franchise. Before long, the inland circuit will be in the orange juice league, the Pure Golds already controlling Colton and Rialto. . . . Mark Kelly quits today as sports editor of the Los Angeles Examiner, begins a two-year contract at Warner Brothers studio.

CALIENTE HANDICAP TO BE RUN APRIL 2

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex., March 15.—(UP)—The Agua Caliente Jockey club, closed during the banking holiday because of lack of business, will reopen Friday, it was announced today.

The Agua Caliente Handicap, originally scheduled for $50,000, but now set as a $25,000 stake, will be run April 2, instead of March 26, the original closing date, President Joseph Schenck said.

Half-Mile Track Near Completion For Midway City

MIDWAY CITY, March 15.—A regulation race track, a half-mile in length, is being laid on the Walter J. Hill ranch at the intersection of Newland and Hazard streets by Hill who will use it in the training of his racing stock.

Hill, who for some years has dealt largely in fine stock at his Montana ranch, brought a large number of his racers and young stock here last year.

Hold Jaysee Track Meet On Tuesday

Spring vacation now called in all public schools here, the Santa Ana-San Bernardino junior college track meet, scheduled for today, has been postponed again until next Tuesday.

Coach Bill Cook has left for Mexico, where he plans to hunt and fish until the reopening of school Monday.

Other sports also being postponed, Santa Ana's athletic program will not operate in full swing until next week.

WHITNEY PREPS 2 STARTERS FOR AINTREE RACE

LONDON, March 15.—(UP)—John Hay Whitney, American millionaire, has spent more money than anybody else in trying to win the Grand National at Aintree, which entered five horses for the race March 24, and two of them will run, namely Lone Eagle II and Dusty Foot.

Neither is among the leading favorites, but both are sound candidates whose chances look fairly equal. They are of the hunter-steeplechaser type which has the best record over the Aintree fences.

Dusty Foot is among the bottom weights with 147 pounds to carry. He is a nine-year-old and will be ridden by "Pete" Postwick. Lone Eagle II is a seven-year-old bred by Whitney in Kentucky, and is allotted the not very excessive burden of 153 pounds. William Speck, leading jockey to Jack Anthony's stable, which trains both horses, will be up.

Dusty Foot was ridden in last year's grand National by Speck, but the horse refused at a fence about halfway through the race. Unless he forgets about it this time it is odds against him finishing the race. Dusty Foot has been hunted during the winter months so that he would lack nothing in condition. He has given a faultless exhibition of jumping during his preparation for the Grand National, and there is no doubt about his ability to stay the four and a half miles.

Lone Eagle II will be tackling the full Grand National distance for the first time. He is a well-set-up horse and a good jumper, and had his first tryout over the Aintree track last November.

MCKINLEY ATHLETES WIN ON CINDERPATH

Six points ahead of its nearest competitor, McKinley school defeated Roosevelt and John Muir athletes in a triangular track meet at John Muir school.

There were two divisions—one for boys under 12, the other for boys under 14—and although John Muir won the senior division, McKinley scored heavily enough in junior competition to win with 37-12 points. Roosevelt placed second with 31-12; John Muir, third with 22.

SUMMARY: JUNIORS

75-yard dash—Won by Ensign (Roosevelt); Hicks (Roosevelt), second; McKinley third. No time recorded.

Broad jump—Won by Baker (McKinley), 12 ft., 7 in.; Clary (McKinley), second, 12 ft., 4 in.; Huston (John Muir), third.

High jump—Won by Downs (McKinley); Graham (McKinley), second; Zorns (Roosevelt), third.

Relay—Won by McKinley; Roosevelt, second; John Muir, third.

Final scores: McKinley, 37½ points; first; Roosevelt, 31½; second; John Muir, 22, third.

TROJANS, STANFORD PLAN 2 DUAL MEETS

PALO ALTO, March 15.—(UP)—Stanford university and the University of Southern California will meet twice on track and field this year, the Stanford board of control announced today.

Although originally slated for only one dual meet April 29 here, a second meeting has been scheduled for May 6 in Los Angeles to fill open dates at both schools.

GARDEN SEEKS PRIOR DATE TO DEMPSEY BOUT

NEW YORK, March 15.—(UP)—One of the greatest promoting wars in the history of boxing will be waged in New York this summer as rival camps attempt to put on two major heavyweight bouts with less than a month intervening.

The bouts were definitely assured for New York when the boxing commission sanctioned a meeting between Champion Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera, and when Jack Dempsey told the commission he had settled on either the Polo Grounds or Yankee stadium for his Max Schmeling-Max Baer bout.

Although Madison Square Garden received permission for the Sharkey-Carnera bout, Dempsey appeared to be leading in the early skirmishing because he had obtained the commission's approval of the strategic date, June 1, if he decided on New York as the site.

James J. Johnston, director of boxing at the Garden, will ask the commission to sanction a definite date for the Sharkey-Carnera title fight Friday. He said he would select May 18 if the weather bureau advised favorably.

Experts doubt that the commission will grant this date to the Garden because of the possibility of its interfering with Dempsey's fight. Dempsey will donate a part of the gate to the Calvary Cancer hospital, a pet charity of New York's secretary of state, Edward Flynn.

If May 18 is approved, the Garden will be gambling on the weather, with virtually no prospect of a postponement date, if the bout cannot be held on the night set.

If the Garden stages its title bout after the Schmeling-Baer fight, it will come as an anticlimax, unless staged late in July or September.

Most experts consider the battle between the two logical contenders, Schmeling and Baer, superior to the Sharkey-Schmeling fracas.

BAER TO DO TRAINING AT ATLANTIC CITY

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15.—(UP)—Maxie Baer will open training at Atlantic City at least a month before his fight with Max Schmeling in New York, June 1, his manager, Ancl Hoffman, said today upon their return here.

It will be "just another fight" for the California Maxie. The quotation is his own.

"I'll be ready for the battle all right," he said when advised that arrangements had been completed. "Then I'll be ready too for the fight with Jack Sharkey for the heavyweight championship as soon as I beat Schmeling."

Although his major training will be carried out at the New Jersey resort, Baer plans on inaugurating workouts at his manager's ranch at Roseville with a flurry of drills in a Sacramento ring interspersing the program.

Hoffman said a short exhibition tour through Salt Lake City, Denver and Wyoming ending with a week's engagement in a Chicago theater, also was planned.

HENRY'S CAGE AGES TO JOIN S. F. TEAM

SAN FRANCISCO, March 15.—Three stars of the Wichita Henrys, three-time A. U. basketball champions deposed at the annual tournament in Kansas City last week, will join the United Athletic club of San Francisco next year, it was learned today.

Tom Pickell, rangy center; Mel Miller, forward, and Johnny Callahan, guard, have been signed by the local club, officials said. The Henrys will play the United Athletic club Friday night before sailing to Honolulu for exhibition games.

HAMAS, RAMAGE FIGHT TO DULL DRAW DECISION

LOS ANGELES, March 15.—(UP)—Steve Hamas, former Penn State college athlete, and Lee Ramage, San Diego, fought a dull 16-round draw at Olympic auditorium last night.

Touted as a "natural" since each previously had won a decision and Ramage soundly trounced "Tuffy" Griffiths of Chicago, the bout stirred the fans interest only in the third and seventh rounds.

Ramage had been promised a fight with Mickey Walker if he finished Hamas, but the latter was on the run for the greater part of the bout.

Hamas, who weighed 187½ pounds, got in enough blows in the eighth and tenth rounds to eke out a draw. He also took the second round.

Ramage, 181½, pursued Hamas in the third and sunk lefts and rights to the jaw, and continued his tactics in the fifth and sixth. The other rounds were even. In the seventh, Hamas almost floored the San Diego boy with a right to the chin.

There was no dissent when Referee George Blake called the battle even.

PIPING 'EM OFF

(By United Press)

WEST LOS ANGELES.—The Hollywood Stars, forced to cancel their spring training games at Long Beach because of the quake, will meet the New York Giants here today, and tomorrow, and will move into Los Angeles to play the Giants again Friday, pinch-hitting for the Los Angeles Angels. They also meet the New Yorkers Tuesday.

AVALON—The Los Angeles Angels resumed their spring training here today, taking over the camp vacated by their brother Chicago Cubs. Manager Jack Leivelt gave his men a holiday yesterday to play the Arnold Stange the demon outfielder, carried a 65, Leivelt a 76.

SACRAMENTO—General Bordagary, star outfielder, was still missing from the Sacramento camp today, a holdover from salary differences. Despite his absence, the Solons staged a fast workout. Bordagary turned in the uniform when he refused training expenses until he signed a contract.

LOS ANGELES—Carl Hubbell's pitching and tight fielding by second stringers gave the New York Giants a 9 to 7 victory over the Chicago Cubs yesterday. Hubbell took the mound in the sixth inning when the Yankees replaced the regulars and held the Cubs scoreless while his mates gathered in five runs and victory. Babe Herman, Cuyler and Lieber hit home runs.

PASADENA—With the "city series" between the White Sox and Cubs standing at 11 to 6 in favor of the Sox, the teams resumed their warfare at Wrigley field, Los Angeles, today.

OAKLAND—Harlan Pool's ninth inning double over Fred Lindstrom's head with two out scored a runner from second and presented Oakland with a 5-4 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates in an exhibition game here yesterday. The hit was made off Swift.

SARASOTA, Fla.—Smead Jolley, first casualty of the Boston Red Sox training season, today nursed a dislocated finger suffered in a practice game. Jolley, outfielder, being converted into a catcher, will be on the sidelines for several days.

TAMPA, Fla.—Si Johnson, one of the Cincinnati Reds' best pitchers, was slated to work two innings today for the Yannisians in a practice game against the regulars. He will hurt against the Athletics Sunday.

FORT MYERS, Fla.—The Pennsylvania senate's defeat of a bill to legalize Sunday baseball in that state was a severe blow to members of the Philadelphia Athletics. Most of the players were indignant. Asked for a statement, Manager Connie Mack said: "It means a terrible battle for us to exist."

HOW MUCH SHOULD BABE GET?

Jobless Fans Differ in Poll Made by Salvation Army

50 CENTS AN HOUR, SAYS ONE

By HENRY MCLEMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, March 15.—(UP)—One million bucks.

Fifty cents an hour. A thousand a homer. Nothing.

These were a few of the answers to a question—How much should Babe Ruth get this year?—in a poll conducted among the 2000 jobless residents of Gold Dust Lodge by the Salvation Army.

When all the ballots were in and an average struck, it was found that the gentlemen of Gold Dust Lodge, whose present income is $50,000.00, believed that the Yankee slugger should receive $48,999.09 for his 1933 services. This is just $1000 less than Owner Jake Ruppert's offer.

In addition to the 1087 voters whose estimates were included in the average, 18 were of the opinion that Ruth was entitled to "all he can get." Two Gold Dusters answered with "Give him $3000 a year. That's all a man who never has done a useful day's work in his life is worth."

Another chap—probably an old Red Sox pitcher—wrote "Give him nothing and put him in jail."

A fellow who signed his lip "Just a fan for all sports in all fields of life" was of the opinion that Babe should get $100,000.00, despite "Andrew Carnegie's warning that no man is worth more than $100,000 a year."

BUCKLEY BARRED

Johnny Buckley, manager of what is accepted as the world's heavyweight champion, and co-manager of the late Ernie Schaaf, was jolted rather rudely the other day when Promoter Joe Gilman bade him go away, please, and stay away from Boston's Madison Square Garden branch. . . . Gilman, tired of Buckley's dictatorial ways, told Buckley to scram and take his fighters along. . . . Certain of the flistic clientele who had tired of Buckley's arrogance cheered Gilman for his stand. . . . and the Garden seems to be doing quite well without the Buckley bruisers.

CASH IN POCKET

The first day of the banking holiday ordered by President Roosevelt did not find home betters in Florida unprepared. . . . Some 6500 people wagered $134,000. . . . an average of slightly more than $20 apiece. . . . at Hialeah Park.

EXCITEMENT

Ohio State and Purdue may sever athletic relations. . . . as a result of a couple of hot basketball games. . . . When Purdue placed at Ohio State Feb. 13, Coach Piggy Lambert rushed onto the floor to protest a foul. . . . The resultant technical foul cost Purdue victory by a point. . . . After the return game at Purdue Big Bill Hosket, Ohio State center, traded socks with Capt. Ralph Parmenter, Purdue's All-Conference guard. . . . Hosket's explanation was that the Bollermakers players kept provoking him throughout the game.

BIG BILL PESSIMISTIC

The United States may have a great chance to regain the Davis Cup from France this year, but Big Bill Tilden doesn't think so. . . . In fact Bill doesn't think the home boys will get to first base. . . . He says our lads will have great difficulty overcoming Germany.

BEAN BALLS IN CRICKET

Ball players who have been worrying about financial affairs are not so bad off as they might be. They at least know where they stand, from day to day, and that is more than can be said of

Some of the world's greatest cricket players. For the cricket batsman now must watch out for the bean ball, and on defense never knows just what he is going to play.

The matters of how a batsman was to bat, a bowler to bowl and the fielders to field came to a head recently when England's cricket team went to Australia.

THE FAST ONE

It seems that the English had strong mowlers (pitchers to you, Gus). These bowlers are allowed to take an indefinitely long run before delivering the ball. The impetus picked up by a bowler with this running delivery made certain of the British flingers almost as fast as Walter Johnson. Notable among these British bowlers was Larwood.

The Australians developed a technique to combat this speed. The batsman, instead of standing sideways and sighting with one eye, according to cricket custom, took a half-turn and crick, custom, faced the bowler. This stance, like that of Heinie Groh, Joe Cronin and a few other ball players, became known as "the two-eyed stance"—and did those Australians start making runs!

THE "LEG THEORY"

But the English had a way to offset that, too. They adopted what has become known as the "leg theory," putting a lot of fielders on the leg or left-hand side of the batter and then bowling straight at the batsman. This upset the Australian system, making the batters as uncomfortable as ball players who might be facing Fred Marberry when he was having a wild day. Many of the Australian players were hit by the English bowlers.

Finally the Antipodeans protested to British authorities that the tactics were unsportsmanlike. This reply was a denial of any impropriety or bad sportsmanship. In so many words, what did the Australians propose to do about it?

All that is left for the Australians, it appears, is to learn how to hit what American ball players call "high, hard ones, inside." Perhaps Al Simmons could go over and coach them in the off season.

YPRESS AREA CONSTRUCTION WORK STARTED

YPRESS, March 15.—Construction work is under way here to rebuild buildings damaged by the quake.

J. G. Priddy, realtor and owner of the Priddy block, that includes a Southern Counties branch bank, started yesterday afternoon that it will be accepted today from contractors.

"Any contract settled upon will include a clause that only local men will be used in the reconstruction work," he stated. He explained that all work will be rushed to completion so that business may be resumed as soon as possible.

The branch of the Southern Union bank has been temporarily moved to Anaheim. The only other bank now open in the area is the First National bank, which is also temporarily moved to a frame building adjoining the Priddy block.

With two of the stucco buildings the grammar school badly damaged, the schools have been closed until repairs can be made and the students return in safety. Sam Miller, president of the board of trustees, stated that the enforced closing will not take the place of a regular Easter vacation.

While every store in the business district sustained a loss, homes were badly shaken. No one was seriously injured in the disaster. Several of the water mains were broken but have been repaired. Some sections of the community electricity was turned off for nearly 24 hours after the first shock.

Citizens are attempting to solve an employment problem that began yesterday morning with a near riot. When the Anaheim Building and an association brought two Mexicans from Anaheim to work on the La Rue block.

Fifty of the unemployed in the community protested and demanded that the work be given to local men. The building and loan office stated that the work was being done by men who owed the association. The problem was temporarily settled when the Mexicans were sent back and local men went to work in their stead. The following day seven men from Anaheim placed them and are still working on the La Rue block.

LAGUNA BEACH PRINCIPAL TO QUIT IN JUNE

LAGUNA BEACH, March 14.—Following eight years of service, during which time the school has grown from a staff of four teachers to 13, George K. Bingham, principal of the Laguna Beach grammar school, tendered his resignation to the board of directors, yesterday, to take effect in June at the close of the school year. It was accepted with regrets and an expression of appreciation of the officer's work.

Although the board did not appoint a successor, it has been unofficially reported that Principal Bingham will be succeeded by C. Addison Van Loenen, teacher of the eighth grade and now vice principal, who has been connected with the school for the past five years. Van Loenen is an officer of the Lions club.

In his letter of resignation, Principal Bingham said: "Many worthy men and women in the profession are out of positions and in need, while I can get along without teaching and make room for at least one. Then, too, I am getting along in years and younger blood may put new vim into the work."

Principal Bingham has been prominent in the affairs of the Community Presbyterian church and served for many years as an officer and as president of the P. D. club.

Frederick B. Walker, clerk of the school board, announced that although the school was not damaged sufficiently by the temblor of last Friday to keep children from school, the classes had been dismissed for the week and that this will serve for the Easter vacation. He made an appeal to parents to help keep up the average daily attendance, declaring that unless there is a big improvement in the closing months the district will lose one teacher unit from the state allowance, amounting to $1400.

SAN CLEMENTE, March 15.—Nurses working at the San Clemente hospital and in other buildings where refugees from the earthquake area are being treated, were guests of honor at a dance held last night at the Golf club. Beach Man Gets Dried Bananas

NEWPORT BEACH, March 15.—One of the few industries in Tahiti, South Sea Island visited recently by several Orange county travelers, is the manufacture of dried bananas.

H. L. Sherman of this city, who spent six months in Tahiti last year, has received samples of the dried bananas put up by H. D. Rey, of Papeete, capital of Tahiti. Rey is a Tahitian of Spanish descent and plans to go into the business extensively.

The dried bananas received by Sherman look almost exactly like tamarins with corn husks on the outside. The fruit is concentrated and makes excellent centers for chocolates, it is stated.

WELFARE NEEDS TOLD AT ORANGE COUNCIL SESSION; AWARD GAS CONTRACT SOON

ORANGE, March 14.—Announcement was made yesterday at the meeting of the city council of the welfare needs of the city. The meeting of the Orange County League of Municipalities, to be held in the council chamber at 7:30 p. m. Thursday, L. J. Sheridan, of Anaheim, will preside. About 60 are expected to be in attendance.

City Attorney H. L. Dearing was allowed the sum of $100 for the defense of the city in the damage suit being brought against the municipality by Mrs. Emma J. Brown, of Santa Ana, who asks the sum of $20,000 for injuries which she claims to have received when riding in a car over a dip at Palm and Cypress streets.

Mayor Clyde Watson called attention to the great need of immediate action being taken in the matter of the Orange County Welfare store, which he declared is without funds to carry on the welfare work in the city, the need of which is as great as ever. H. L. Dearing suggested that the work be turned over to the Salvation Army, which had recently established a store here.

Watson suggested a drive for funds asking a dollar a month from 150 persons. He paid a high tribute to the work being done by Miss Grace Lentz, welfare worker, but declared that something must be done at once to provide funds for the work. No action was taken.

G. N. Carter applied to the Orange city council for a permit to sell real beer with lunches at the Carter cafe, 3007 South Main street. Carter asked that the license be issued when the selling of beer becomes legal. The Carter cafe is owned by his mother, Mrs. Esther Carter, the applicant said.

Mayor Watson instructed City Clerk T. J. Ellish to inform Carter that the city has an ordinance prohibiting the sale of beer.

A contract to furnish the city of Orange with gasoline will be awarded at the next meeting of the council on April 4. Bids were submitted by the Union Oil, the General Petroleum, the Standard and Associated companies.

A long discussion was held regarding the meaning of certain terms in the trade for land between the Consolidated Rock company and the city, which was completed last week with the exception of minor details.

NEWPORT SAND STANDS TEST AS FOUNDATION

NEWPORT BEACH, March 15.—Newport harbor district people have learned from two different experiences to respect "the sands of the sea shore." Improvement of the harbor entrance and the earthquake have proved to them that, far from being in the category of "shifting sands," that kind of soil is more stable, when there is sufficient quantity, than cement or rock.

A few years ago this city spent the proceeds of a $500,000 bond issue in extending and improving its rock jetty at the west side of the harbor entrance and building a new concrete jetty at the east side of the entrance. Still there was trouble, the waves at times almost washing through the shore end of the rock jetty.

Later the sand lifted out of the entrance in a dredging job was pumped over to the west side of the jetty, where all the trouble had occurred, and with a sufficient quantity of sand there, the trouble ceased, and ever since Newport harbor's entrance channel and the jetties on both sides have been in fine condition.

Last Friday night came the second big test of sand as a foundation. In the quake that caused such heavy damage in numerous Southern California communities, and on three sides of Newport Beach, the damage here was confined almost entirely to loose bricks falling from chimneys and fire walls of the earlier buildings in the district.

Those who observed this condition from the scientific standpoint acted as a sort of rubber shock absorber, not liable, therefore, to the cracks and upheavals that occurred in many places in rock, cement and brick.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

— News Behind the News —

WASHINGTON
By Robert D. Heintz
(Subbing for Paul Mallon)

VICTORY
Despite the vociferous opposition to the proposed drastic cuts in veterans' compensation, President Roosevelt will be granted the extraordinary powers he seeks from Congress.

The legislation designed to aid in balancing the budget will not be privileged to the extent of the banking act, which was almost unopposed. It will be put through the committee routine.

Nevertheless, the President has the whip hand. In view of the soundness of the measures he has thus far proposed it is safe to say he can have anything he wants from Congress.

OPTIMISTIC
In connection with the banking situation Mr. Roosevelt expressed what appeared to be real optimism. He says the outlook is excellent.

AMENDMENTS
At the capital it was predicted that certain objectionable features in the banking bill would be ironed out. This had been expected.

TIME
It was said at the White House if every bank doesn't open the first day it doesn't mean it won't open the next, or the next after that.

"A bank not opening its doors immediately need not convey the idea it isn't 100% solvent," the assertion continued. "It will take time to make the necessary examinations."

DECENTRAL
The President's separation of the sheep from the goats—the sound from the unsound banking institutions—is for the sole purpose of safe-guarding depositors. Stories of ulterior purposes will wash out swiftly.

Quick! Stop That COLD!
Don't Let It Run Beyond the First Stage!

A cold ordinarily goes through three stages: the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours; the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days; and the Mucous Secretion Stage. To let a cold run beyond the first stage is inviting danger.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine taken at the first sign of a cold will usually stop it in one day. This famous tablet is effective because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels, kills the cold germs and fever in the system, relieves the headache and tones the entire system. Anything less than that is toying with a cold. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine today and accept nothing else. Now two sizes—20c and 50c—at all druggists.

It is his intention to protect depositors as far as he possibly can without the Government's actually guaranteeing the accounts. This administration is headed away from paternalism. It wants fewer children to look after—not more.

UNEMPLOYED
The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has been helpful to banks, railroads and in liquidating institutional payrolls but the criticism has been made that it has done nothing to directly assist or put to work the 12,000,000 unemployed.

President Roosevelt has indicated that unemployment relief is one of his first objectives. In his approval of new enterprises, calling for an appropriation of $500,000,000 to begin a public works program which will employ 500,000 persons, he starts the New Deal on that side of the table.

BREAK
A lucky break—and one unintentionally of his own making—is the President's being allowed to work undisturbed largely because visitors cannot cash checks. Those allowed to work undisturbed largely because visitors cannot cash checks. Those who were in town for the inauguration had to get out quickly. Money shortage has kept others at home.

Great conventions are frequently times to inveigle the President into addressing them or to receive delegates in groups of several hundreds, but conventions in Washington are now few and far between. No trouble for the new President on that score.

SAWING WOOD
The recent is that President Roosevelt is able to spend his entire time sawing wood. He wakes up at about 7:30 o'clock in the morning, breakfasts in bed and dictates letters until about 10:30 o'clock, when he goes to his office.

Once at his desk he remains there throughout the day. Lunch is served at his desk. Sometimes he doesn't leave it until 7 o'clock or later.

CORRECTION
This column slipped unhappily in noting that Mrs. Roosevelt received $5000 for each of her radio performances and that Mrs. Dall would get $3000 for her talks.

One of the very few who know the facts has been kind enough to inform us that the actual figures were $500 for one appearance weekly for Mrs. Roosevelt and will be $200 a week for two appearances for Mrs. Dall.

In radio, as has been the case with the stage for many years, the amount actually received in the pay envelope is at times far away from the publicized figure.

A dozen headlines in radio are supposed to be receiving $5000 per performance and Ed Wynn is said to get $7500 but there have always been reserved opinions as to whether this was stage or real money.

The modest figures quoted for the services of Mrs. Roosevelt and her daughter, who are surely among the greatest headlines radio has ever known, tend to bear out the assertion that the fabulously high salaries reported to be paid to radio people should be taken with a large shot of salt.

HOIST
One man close to Roosevelt, a Cincinnati, missed a high Federal appointment because he drew $50,000 in gold from his bank and put it into a safe deposit box. He was in line to have become Solicitor General or an Assistant Secretary. His explanation did not make an alibi.

JAPAN
The national decision of Japan to withdraw from the League of Nations drove the excitable public to jingoistic cries of Banzai. The financial world is keeping a gloomy silence in fear of imminent economic pressure from abroad.

Business people are reported here to believe a systematic boycott is improbable, but they do fear voluntary attempts on the part of individual nations at making effective their dislike and distrust of the militarists. This could slowly but surely choke the nation while the man in the street had no knowledge of what was taking place.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin
FINANCING
Treasury heads have cured their nightmares about March 15 maturities. New York City banks have agreed to take over the entire issue—including any new financing currently needed. Afterwards these banks will borrow money from the federal reserve to pay for their subscriptions—perhaps using the new obligations themselves as collateral. It's the latest trick of the week.

The new issue will probably bear a coupon rate higher than the one it refunds. This should facilitate a later effort to redistribute the issue to individual citizens—notably to ex-soldiers. The de-banking drive is expected to assist the whole market for government issues appreciably.

RATING
The federal reserve banks will come pretty close to dictating which banks are sound and which are not in the re-classification of white, gray and black. No hard and fast rule will be laid down, but in essence any bank whose deposits are covered 100 per cent by assets acceptable as collateral to its regional federal reserve bank will be permitted to reopen without restrictions. Sixty to ninety per cent solvency in terms of deposits will probably earn a borderline rating. A lower degree of solvency means nothing doing.

In effect this will amount to a guarantee by the federal reserve banks of the soundness of the reopened institutions. It should be more effective in restoring confidence than a government guarantee. No matter what governors may do state banks will not reap the advantages of this moral backing unless they join the federal reserve system. Hence the fevered rush in that direction. It's a case where moral suasion works better than a club.

Another result of this method will be peaceful progress toward a unified system with fewer but stronger banks. The future drift of free deposits will naturally be away from the black and gray banks into those which are opened immediately. There need be no element of coercion in the gradual elimination of all but the best.

About 40 New York bank executives have gone to Washington to help in the rating process. They are men who have had close contact with correspondent banks—both national and state—and they know more about these correspondent banks than even the bank examiners. Their judgment will be accepted as final in many cases.

PRESSURE
Officers and stockholders of banks which have reason to believe they will be rated unsound have been moving heaven and earth through their political connections to get a blanket guarantee of bank deposits, open inflation, or anything else that would stall off the day of reckoning.

Butter and egg men who have been swagging as banking oracles would walk upstairs on their knees to avoid being shown up by local Charlie Mitchells. But the pressure act has failed completely. Speaking of the forthcoming exhibition of clay feet, comment runs: "The depositors may not all their money but at least they'll draw down some fun."

The principal need as visualized here is a consistently hard-boiled attitude on the part of Treasury and Federal Reserve officials to be sure that none but genuinely sound banks get under the wire. All signs indicate that this spirit now prevails and will continue to do so despite piteous moans.

GLASS
Senator Glass is given much credit for preventing concessions to weakness in the Bank Act. They tell it here that he walked out of three conferences in Washington last week with the word that he would return when the conferees were ready to talk sense.

CURRENCY
An important but unnoticed feature of the Bank Act is the fact that it definitely leaves us on a gold base. It provides that the new currency can be exchanged for lawful money on demand—and lawful money comprises only gold certificates and other currency fully backed by gold.

BUSINESS
A preliminary survey of the bank holiday's effect on outstanding retail businesses in New York City is presented below. Figures indicate the percentage change against the average per day for the two weeks preceding the holiday.

Candy, soda and restaurant chains (2)... minus 50%
Automat cafeteria chain minus 20%
Affiliated retail stores
(4) plus 20%
Department stores (4)... minus 25%
Shoe store chains (2)... minus 30%
Book publishers and retail book stores (3) minus 30%
Motion picture theatres (2 chains and 3 independent theatres) ... minus 40%
Grocery chains (3)..... plus 15%
Hotels (3) minus 55%
The increase in the grocery business was entirely due to heavy sales of canned goods.

GROWERS NEED COOPERATION. ADVERTISING

The need of citrus growers is cooperation in marketing, not division in four squads, and stamping on each other, E. T. Cassel, veteran of the citrus industry of California, and manager of the by-products plant of the California Fruit growers, told members and guests of Placentia Farm Center last night.

He outlined the huge successes the citrus growers have made, and showed how all have been accomplished through the cooperation of masses of growers, and said further that on the one point where cooperation is essential, the marketing of fruit, lack of cooperation is existing, and marketing is being tried through cash buyers, contractors, big cooperatives and small cooperatives.

"Right now, advertising is the life blood of the citrus industry; the large cooperative has spent more in advertising than all the other sellers, and has included the cost in the general cost of sale budget, and still kept the overhead on sales under other classes of marketers," Cassel said.

"We must continue to advertise; we must continue to convince people through advertising that the orange is a necessity of life and to move perishable crops, we must cooperate. Competition may be desirable in buying; monopoly is the necessity in successful selling," he declared.

The speaker was introduced by Harry O. Easton, manager of the Placentia Mutual Orange association. Harold Long presided at the session. Besides the address, Ralph McFadden, member of Placentia center, president of Orange County Farm Bureau, explained the Santa Ana Water Basin association and the purpose. H. H. Hale reported on the efforts of the association to protect the water of the valley, and said cooperation and organization are essential.

R. D. Flaherty, secretary-treasurer of the county bureau, told of the organization of the Orange county committee to work with people in distress in an effort to prevent foreclosures on property. He said unless reliable organizations assisted in preventing unjust foreclosures, other methods might be used, and said the committee working with the Farm Bureau includes representatives of associated chambers of commerce, board of supervisors, Orange County Bar association, Building and Loan league, American Legion, Taxpayers association, Bankers association and that representatives of city governments are being asked to cooperate.

E. J. Menard made a report of the activity of the Farm Bureau.

ENGINEER SAYS EARTHQUAKE FOLLOWED INGLEWOOD FAULT; FINDS CRACKS IN EARTH

A study of the location of the fault underground along the area of the temblors which have shaken this section for nearly five days is being made by Murray Thompson, Orange county flood control engineer, it was learned today.

MODERN ART DISCUSSED AT CLUB MEETING

Traced on an Orange county map, the fault, known, Thompson said, as the Inglewood fault, runs almost parallel to the county coastline but runs into the ocean just west of Newport Beach.

The one building in the Huntington Beach grammar school which received the most damage of the group lies directly over the fault, he said. Just below Talbert the outfall sewer line broke above the screening plant. This is in an area close to the fault.

Apparently pressures from the shifting of earth ran at right angles to the ocean, according to the engineer's studies. The same fault goes through Inglewood and the oil fields. Inglewood was damaged by an earthquake some years ago.

No fault underlies Santa Ana, he said, but there is the possibility that another fault between Santa Ana and Orange absorbed some of the shock which damaged Santa Ana but which was hardly felt in Orange.

Thompson found evidence of a disturbance at Seventeenth and Ocean boulevards and at Seventeenth and Springdale, he found cracks in the earth where water was seeping up through.

Santa Ana is over a fill, he said, similar to loose earth piled between two mountains or hills.

In the Talbert area he located an artesian well which flows warm water. He predicted that the flow will drop off gradually.

ATTENDANCE AT J. C. SUBJECT PUTTING GLASS OF DISCUSSION IN GARBAGE CAN

The admission of students to the Fullerton junior college from outside the district is an economy instead of an expense, and should be continued, Albert Launer declared at the Placentia Chamber of Commerce meeting yesterday noon.

He said according to figures he has gleaned, it costs but $5 more per pupil for outside students so far as the local district is concerned, and that figures on education show that schools operated with more pupils are cheaper to operate per capita than those running too far underneath the saturation point.

Launer, Fullerton lawyer, president of the board of trustees, said this is the one point on which he and the Placentia representatives, Jack Prizer and James Tuffree, disagree on the economy program of the school. He declared further that his figures and conclusions are borne out by the auditors of both Santa Ana and Fullerton district schools, and that Santa Ana board of trustees, in session with Fullerton board, said, "exclude them (the outside students) and we will take them in."

An additional point in consideration of exclusion of students from without the district is that those students will move into the district to attend school, and thus be permitted to enter, while the school will be unable to collect the outside tax, and will collect the money for average daily attendance only.

The figures presented by Launer to clear his points were contested by Jack Prizer and S. James Tuffree, and Dan Henry, auditor of the Fullerton high school and junior college, said the differences came about through the inaccuracy of the accounts at the court house, and the antiquated methods used in bookkeeping there.

In connection with his being a candidate for re-election to the board of trustees at the election March 31, Launer said "if I lose I win, and if I win I lose," and that his policy in working on the board will be one of economy, considering that it is effected by cutting costs to cut taxes.

Fred Valle, member of the chamber unable to be present yesterday, sent a letter protesting the remarks made by J. J. Deuel at the meeting last week concerning taxing of utility corporations, and suggested that a general sales tax on utilities is in keeping with the general idea of sales tax.

She escaped with only minor bruises and managed to reach her car, driving it over heaps of brick and other wreckage on her way out of the stricken city.

BROWN HAIR STRONG

WASHINGTON — Clement H. Brown, Washington physicist, has found that the average hair on a girl's head is about one-half the tensile strength of steel. He also finds that brown hair is the most difficult to break, and that red hair is the hardest to stretch.

Attendance at J. C. Subject Putting Glass of Discussion in Garbage Can

A warning was today issued by J. L. McBride, city engineer, against the placing of broken glass in garbage cans.

Since the earthquake here, this has been the practice in many instances, McBride said, and declared that garbage cans with glass in them would not be emptied by the city.

The garbage is immediately sold to a hog rancher here and during the past several days a number of hogs have been killed from eating foods containing glass, it was reported.

The city will be strict in collecting the garbage for the next several days and housewives are urged to cooperate and asked to put broken glass in trash containers instead of the garbage can.

To All Telephone Users:

Now that false rumors have been laid at rest, and wild prophecies of further dangers discredited, we are publishing this statement to show that the Southern California Telephone Company is doing "business as usual."

With many additional emergency long distance telephone lines connecting Southern California communities, telephone service is rapidly approaching the point where all calls can be completed to all points quickly. There are, of course, still several hundred local telephones out of service in the areas of greatest damage but aside from this, local service throughout Southern California is normal. There is now no reason why the public should not place calls whenever and to wherever it desires. Delays of more than a few minutes are likely to be encountered only on calls in and out of the damaged area, and telephone traffic to and from these points is being handled as rapidly as possible.

To meet the emergency, the company installed 115 more long distance telephone lines including many additional lines to the East and North. On Saturday, more long distance telephone calls were completed than ever before in the history of Southern California.

No telephone building collapsed. Not a single telephone employee on duty was injured. As a matter of extra precaution, the Long Beach long distance building was strongly reinforced Friday night and we are confident that not a single telephone structure in Southern California is unsafe for occupancy. Every telephone building came through without harm to occupants, and we are, therefore, prepared to carry on telephone service on a normal basis.

Substitution of part time work for layoffs in the telephone organization, during the depression, proved a tremendous help in meeting the emergency, enabling the company to throw into the job a large, skilled and experienced crew which would

Beach Teacher Visitor In Brea

BREA, March 14.—Mrs. Bernice Davies, a teacher in the Long Beach schools, is visiting here with her aunt, Mrs. R. W. Spensley. Mrs. Davies had a miraculous escape from the effects of an earthquake and hastened to Brea immediately after. She was in a Fifth avenue cafe and with others hurried out when the crash came only to be almost buried under falling brick. She escaped with only minor bruises and managed to reach her car, driving it over heaps of brick and other wreckage on her way out of the stricken city.

Return to Brea

BREA, March 15.—Following four years of ranching near Wasco, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Woodard and family have returned to Brea where they formerly resided for many years. They are now living on the Jake Classen property on South Randolph street.

not otherwise have been available. We are proud of the bravery and self-sacrifice of the men and women of our organization. Men have been working two and three days without rest and the women have stayed by their posts under most trying conditions. Four examples picked at random:

One girl in the Los Angeles long distance office, where hundreds of girls are on duty, was repeatedly dismissed from the board for relief but each time just walked around the board and reported to another supervisor, and by this subterfuge remained continuously on duty for 48 hours. A New York City operator in Southern California on vacation came in and reported for duty and was put to work. Maintenance men in the Huntington Park building stuck to their posts without wavering. The evening long distance chief operator at Long Beach had to be forcibly removed from her post of duty when the building was considered unsafe Friday night.

It is our purpose to complete every telephone call as usual, so use the service as you wish and we shall do our best to handle every call satisfactorily.

The grit and self-reliance of the people of Southern California is an inspiration and this company will be proud indeed if it can live up to their magnificent example.

Thank you for your splendid, intelligent cooperation during the past few days.

Laguna Beach to Hold Kleitsch Memorial Unchanged

Of special interest in this community will be the announcement made today by members of the Kleitsch Memorial committee of Laguna Beach, that plans are being continued without interruption, for the benefit entertainment to be held in Our Village Saturday evening, March 18, at 8 o'clock. This program will be presented exactly as first planned, in the auditorium of Laguna Beach High school.

Examination by school trustees and authorized inspectors has allayed any fears as to the safety of the high school of the village, and authorities found that the auditorium was practically free from any damage whatever. Ticket sales have continued under the direction of C. Addison Van Loenen of the high school faculty.

Among Santa Anans who plan to be in Laguna Beach Saturday evening for the entertainment are County Auditor and Mrs. William T. Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Gustin, Mr. and Mrs. Burr Shaffer, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Woodster and Mr. and Mrs. L. Foreman.

Prominent on the program will be Maurice Zam, at present of Santa Ana, recognized as one of the coming great concert pianists of America. He is making a gift of his fine talents to the Memorial committee, whose members have reserved announcement of the fact as a special surprise not divulged until today. Mr. Zam, who has toured European capitals and has lectured before the music department of Harvard university and other noted eastern schools and universities, began his public career at the age of 7 years when he appeared before Carnegie.

Other feature of the program will include classic dances by Le-Nora Tuttle, whose beauty and grace are said to be enhanced by the exquisite costumes worn for her different numbers. Miss Tuttle was a former student of Mrs. Heli G. Rider, of Laguna Beach, and also studied under some of the most famous teachers in the world. She is coming from Los Angeles to give her services on this program.

Wayne Moore, dramatic director of Our Village, is putting on two scenes from "The Other Wise Man" with authentic costumes and scenery; Mrs. Maude Putnam of the Putnam School of Dancing, Santa Ana, will present two groups of her most talented dancers in living pictures, ballets, and other great features. Spanish, Grecian, classic and amusing numbers will be included, all with charming incidental music and costumes.

In tableau plans, period scenes chosen for their artistic and historic values, are being arranged by Mrs. Roy M. Ropp who will present the series as a surprise finale to the program. Other tableaux are being planned for the high school young people who are being drilled by Charles Gilmore, who also directs the living pictures. Final drills will be on the auditorium stage Saturday morning, when the young people will have a costume rehearsal.

Tickets for this gala affair are now on sale at the Burford garage, Hotel Laguna, and at the home of Mrs. A. B. Goff, president of the Parent-Teacher association of Our Village. It was the association which was instrumental in securing the fine portrait of Professor G. K. Bingham hanging in the school office, gift of the late Joseph Kleitsch at the graduation ceremonies in June, 1930. This is recognized as a very valuable work of art, and is hoped to be the foundation of a collection of fine paintings for the school.

While half a hundred Santa Ana Rotary club men were in session at the Santa Ana Country club yesterday, wives of Rotary club directors joined in extending a luncheon courtesy to Mrs. Charles D. Hayward, wife of the district governor of the Rotary organization. Mr. and Mrs. Hayward motored to Santa Ana yesterday from Bakersfield for the meeting. They are residents of Berkeley.

Among the group which assisted in the welcome were the following luncheon participants, Messdames George Newcomb, C. V. Davis, James Tucker, Alex Brownridge, W. Bradford Hellis, Harvey Gardner, E. B. Sharpley and William McKay.

Orange County Shrine club members have decided to postpone plans for their inauguration dance and card party to have been held tonight at 8:30 o'clock in the Orange Woman's clubhouse. It was announced today.

Plans for the new date will be made known later.

Plans today were cancelled for the meeting tomorrow afternoon of Newport Ebell club, at which Thomas H. Glenn of this city was to have been chief speaker. Mrs. W. W. Crozier of the neighboring community, today explained that the meeting was indefinitely postponed.

PRAYER FOR SPRING

By HELEN WELSHIMER

FOR restless seeds in warm brown earth, we thank Thee,
Sun-spattered hills, clean winds that blow again,
For quiet places when the day is over,
One little house, and laughter now and then.

THE weary days have left the sombre winter,
We ask for greenness for the fields we tend,
May all the years that we remember teach us,
There is no grief too deep for spring to mend.

SO long, dear God, we've walked the muted highway
Each age we know must bear something of pain,
But it is spring... Just for awhile we ask Thee
That we may hear dim music in the rain!

Children Romp Merrily At Birthday Party For Small Maid

Although the birthday party for little Miss Gwen Merigold had an amazing climax on Friday, March 10, the subsequent earthquake was not sufficiently hard to dislodge from the minds of the small party guests, the memories of a happy Gwen's mother, Mrs. James A. Merigold, and held in the pretty gardens of their home at 909 South Ross street.

Mrs. C. G. Illingworth and Mrs. A. V. Merigold were present to assist in all party plans for their small granddaughter, and in the games which the children enjoyed as the afternoon advanced. After they had romped and played, and looked at all the pretty gifts brought for the small honoree, the youngsters were grouped around a table spread on the lawn and centered with a gleaming white birthday cake with two pink candles. The cake was cut and served with ice cream and candies, and the party was over and all the small guests safely home before the temblor climax of this special date.

Little Miss Gwen's guests included her uncle, 7-year-old Bobbie Illingworth, Billie and Edgar Taylor, Clifton, Connie and David Cole, Jean and Jack Criddle and David Grimes.

ANN MEREDITH'S MIXING BOWL

Eat and Grow Slim

Fruit Cocktail

2 tablespoons canned grapefruit

1 small orange, diced

1 drop peppermint essence

1 teaspoon sugar

2 pats pan-broiled hamburger, rare

1 small baked potato

4 tablespoons lady cabbage

1 sliced tomato on shredded lettuce

Mineral oil French dressing

Black coffee or clear tea. No sugar

Calory total, 445

Canned grapefruit fills many places in emergency meals. For cocktails it is indispensable; assuming that he family is to be served the same cocktail, mix the grapefruit and diced orange, take out the diet portion, add teaspoon of sugar and drop of peppermint and set away to cool. For the family add more sugar and a little grenadine syrup, or your own home-made raspberry syrup, which is quite good.

Lady Cabbage
Shred a head of cabbage fine and cook 10 minutes in boiling salty water. Drain and dress with thin cream, salt and pepper. For the diet portion, drain off the cream. For the family add a tiny bit of cornstarch thickening.

TODAY'S RECIPE
Baked Veal Chops
2 small chops for each serving
1 beaten egg
Cracker meal
Salt and pepper
Garlic and celery salt
Dried basil and rosemary, a good pinch of each
2 cups milk, with tiny pinch of soda

1 large cup sour cream
Flour (see directions)
Food in the raw is just as it was when Mrs. John Cave-Woman hacked off a joint for her lord and master and toasted it over a fire. The only thing civilization has added to her knowledge of cookery is the subtle use of herb seasoning, but what an addition that turned out to be!

I speak frequently in this column about the use of Basil and Rosemary. These seasoning herbs can be found in good shops if you will hunt for them. In summer you can grow both of them in your garden, the basil being a perennial. Try and get both; they add so much to the flavor of many foods.

Heat some fat in a large frying pan. Dip the chops into egg, then cracker meal, and quickly brown in the hot fat. Transfer to a large cooking pan, season liberally with salt, pepper, garlic and celery salt, but use the basil and rosemary with a discreet hand. Use just what you can pick up between finger and thumb. Add the milk, dredge with a little flour (2 tablespoons) put into a medium oven, and as soon as the chops are a trifle brown, cover the oven to just a bare suggestion of heat, and bake for

BEGIN HERE TODAY
Shella Shayne, whose parents were well known vaudeville entertainers, is in New York looking for a job. Shella is a dancer. She is hired as substitute for Daisy Gleason, another dancer, who has sprained an ankle. While rehearsing at the party, she meets Trevor Lane to include Shella in the program of entertainment at a party he is giving. Shella refuses, knowing she will be too tired after a day of rehearsing and the performance that night. However, Dick comes to the theater later and persuades her to come. They arrive at the party and Shella sings. She meets several celebrities, including Gordon Mankake, a well known producer. Later Dick escorts her home. Shella finds herself becoming interested in Dick, though she is well aware this is foolish.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.
CHAPTER XI
It was June, Shella was still playing split weeks with Roscoe's act which had not been booked for a solid engagement after all. But split weeks here and there were better than nothing, Shella solemnly agreed.

Dick Stanley approved of the arrangement because it kept her where he could see her frequently. He would call for her and take her to a late breakfast—often at the Casino. Then, if she did not have to play a matinee, they would drive through Westchester or out on Long Island where they would swim and spend leisurely hours on the beach.

Then, for days perhaps, Dick would seem to forget her. He might make a flying trip home or to his family's summer cottage, a palatial affair of which he spoke in an off-hand manner as the "shack." Sometimes Shella knew he had engagements with girls in Trevor Lane's Long Island set.

Dick made no excuses, asked no questions about how Shella spent the time during his absences. He would just seem to drop her after a long and ardent rush in which her heart would leap in tumult at his voice over the telephone or skip a beat when, running down the stairs to greet him in Ma Lowell's lower hall, she would see his browned face and broad smile.

But there was another side of the situation. Shella had to add to her wardrobe considerably to appear well dressed for all these engagements with Dick. As Myrt said, it "ran into money." Of course Shella couldn't compete with those rich girls. Dick would have told her that anything she wore was "lovely" but Shella knew, just the same, that sooner or later he would begin to compare her unconsciously with the carefully groomed girls whom he met in his set. The comparison could not help but be to Shella's disadvantage.

So she bought dresses—picked up here and there in basements, some touch betraying their cheapness removed by Shella's own skillful fingers, some bit of handwork added possibly. She bought hats and was fortunate that almost any hat looked well on her. She could wear a basement hat at just the right angle and make it look—well, almost Fifth Avenue. Shoes and hose remained serious problems. Cheap ones just would not do. It was discouraging business, trying to appear in a new outfit every once in a while and at the same time to save money.

This morning, attired in a blue linen frock with finely embroidered collar and cuffs of white, a small white hat called down over her satin hair. Dick caught Shella had never looked so lovely.

He looked up from his coffee, smiling indolently. "You certainly made a hit with Mandrake all right," he said. Shella's eyes widened. "Mandrake?" she repeated, her voice filled with unconcealed amazement. "Mandr

WEDNESDAY, March 15—(Read Psalm 25:1-5)

Road Maps

The Psalmist is really asking a road-map for the journey of life: he wants to be shown, taught and led—shown the ways of the Lord, taught His paths, led in His truth. For through all which life offers, through all its confusing opportunities and experiences, there is a right way—God's way for the thinking mind, the restless desire, the uncertain will. We need to be shown by example, taught by the wise and understanding and, because we are too prone to go wrong, led by a Divine guidance which opens through light and shadow a road to the homeland of the soul. Those who strive to do God's will have a road-map for life.

Prayer, Guide us, we pray Thee Who knowest the way we take in Thy right and loving paths for us. We are prone to wander in by and forbidden paths. The future is strange and without Thy leading we know not the way. Lead us in Thy truth and establish us in holy obedience. Open for us new roads of truth and goodness along which we may take our earthly pilgrimage, not only safely but with rich reward and to Thy glory. In His name Who is the Way, the Truth and the Life. Amen.

TRAGEDY FOR REVENUE

The beer bill passed Congress. The Constitution prohibits the use of intoxicating liquor, and there is no question about the intoxicating power of 3.2 per cent beer. But what is the Constitution between friends?

When we were in the midst of a great Civil War, the men who wanted a tax on whiskey, asked President Lincoln to sign the bill. He hesitated to do it because he felt it would entrench liquor, and that it would be worse than the Civil War itself. They assured him that it would be taken off immediately following the war, so that it would not entrench the liquor traffic. It wasn't taken off for more than a half-century.

The bringing back of liquor, in the minds of millions of our citizens, will be a greater calamity than the depression or the quake. Liquor has debauched more men and women, destroyed more homes, broken more hearts and damned more souls than pestilence and war and famine combined. And yet this country, for the purpose of raising one hundred and fifty million dollars, proposes to go into partnership with that infamous crime, and violate the national Constitution, because we are "hard up."

The same excuse would justify taking money from gamblers and prostitutes.

We are heartily for the support of our President in every economic proposition. We are not opposed to his favoring beer if he wants to, and we know he wants to. But we do object to having the fathers and mothers of this country insulted by the suggestion that it is done to "save them money." It is done, and we know it is done, for the purpose of making money by the gang of exploiters, who have paid for the propaganda to create sentiment in this country for alcoholic liquor. To entrench it again, by getting revenue out of it, is not to be distinguished in principle from accepting a part of the loot of the bandit, on condition we will keep our eyes shut when he takes it from the victim. Again, we are opposed to flaunting the Constitution in the interest of any crowd, or raising revenue.

We are glad that the Representative from this district voted "No" to that proposition. We hope that neither the President nor Congress will be importuned by other exploiters of human weakness to permit them to ply their traffic on payment of "cash down" for the privilege.

America is rich enough to devise other methods of raising revenue. And if it can't cut its expenses, and raise money from legitimate enterprises and legitimate business and legitimate property, what is it worth?

This will undoubtedly be tested out in the United States Supreme court. We predict that this legislation will be declared unconstitutional.

A BANDIT BECOMES A RESPECTABLE CITIZEN

A few years ago we were hearing a great deal about that bandit Sandino in Nicaragua. American troops scoured the forest to find him, but they never could intercept him. As a matter of fact, he wasn't a bandit at all. He was a loyal Nicaraguan who resented the invasion of his country by the armed forces of a foreign country. If he were an American under similar circumstances he would be called a patriot.

Well, to the everlasting credit of the Hoover administration, the American troops were withdrawn from Nicaragua. And the one-time "bandit" came from the wilds and offered his services to the officials of his country. He has even gone so far as to speak kindly of the United States, much to the disgust of those agitators who are trying to foment hatred against all Americans. He even would take the part of those Americans doing business in his country against these agitators.

Nothing could better illustrate the power of justice. Sandino loves his country. He was willing to become an outlaw rather than bow the knee to an invader. But when the invader voluntarily withdrew, he was ready to let bygones be bygones, and work for his country's peace and growth. Perhaps, after this we shall have a bit more charity for a man who loves his country so much that he will fling defiance to the greatest and most powerful nation in the world that would invade its territory and dictate to its people.

RADIO SERVICE

In this emergency, while we feel that the newspapers have done a most remarkable work, the radio has fulfilled a great function, because it could adapt itself instantly to the additional information. The Register got out an edition right in the midst of the quake, but a few hours afterwards, additional information was being broadcast over KREG and this kept up constantly during the night.

Not only so, but with forms of communication broken and with cities disorganized, the radio was found to be a remarkable means to reach the people and keep them informed of the plans of the re-builders.

There was one thing which the radio emphasized, and that was that it could be invaluable for use in police work. If criminals knew that in each city, and particularly in the small ones, that there was a radio that instantly informed all points on the highways in the city of crimes that had been committed, the criminals would tend to avoid that city as a plague.

In some cases, the cost of such compared with the values of the service is extremely small. In fact, during the year there would be found probably more than one instance of use, where the success of it would be more than worth the cost for a year. Why police and public officials fail to use the service that other up-to-date corporations are using to great advantage, illustrates another reason why taxpayers' money does not get as great returns as private individuals might in many cases.

In the meantime, we want to congratulate our local radio broadcasting organization on their fine work, and assure them that The Register and thousands of citizens appreciate it.

A CORRECTION

In the editorial yesterday, "It Is Our One Hope," a line was inadvertently left out, destroying the meaning of a sentence. The last sentence in the fourth paragraph from the end should have read as follows:

And if these 138 had actually been a majority, the leadership in this country would have been undermined, the confidence of the people destroyed, and it would have brought us nearer to real trouble than any single incident which has occurred since the beginning of our troubles.

The Veteran Situation

Illustrated Daily News (Los Angeles)

Yesterday the Daily News applauded the stand President Roosevelt has taken on the economy issue. This applause was construed by some readers to include, by inference, approval of the propaganda work done by the National Economy League. Such was not the intention of the Daily News.

On the contrary, this newspaper believes that the so-called "economy" league has done more to create unrest, worry and general demoralization throughout the country than it has done good. It has created public enmity toward all veterans that is rapidly converting the medal of service into a badge of disgrace.

That the American Legion, or any other organized group of veterans should be castigated, en masse, because some veterans have gained unfair and unwarranted bounties from the government, is precisely like calling all bankers unscrupulous thieves and public enemies because some bank officials, under the spotlight of a senate investigation, were observed to be "irregular" in the performance of their duties.

The public's memory is very short. Forgotten, for instance, are the war-time profiteers who cashed in on spilled blood (not their own) to the tune of millions of dollars. Forgotten, too, are industrialists, international bankers, land speculators, all of whom made fortunes out of the war, and many of whom are today subsidizing the National Economy League in an effort to reduce income taxes on their ill-gotten fortunes.

It is quite true that the United States has been more generous to its veterans than has many European countries. It is also true that this country was more generous with its stay-at-homes than was any other nation on earth. Wages soared, stock prices zoomed to the sky, a new army of millionaires was created.

The Daily News is for President Roosevelt and his economy program. Also it believes the public should be just in its attitude toward the veteran.

It believes, too, that the American Legion and other veteran organizations in conjunction with the Veterans' Bureau in Washington, will co-operate with President Roosevelt in eliminating compensation and pension cases that do not, in point of fact, belong on the roster. This, we assume, is all that President Roosevelt or any other good American wants to do.

While we are on the subject, we might point out once more the patent truth that even veterans must eat. There are twenty-five millions of destitute citizens in the United States at this moment. There are no jobs. Sending a man from one dole window to another is not economy. In Los Angeles county the dole line is already far too long.

Economizing in Washington will mean piling high new taxes in Los Angeles unless the citizens and leaders of this community get together and arrange opportunities for out-of-work individuals to become self-supporting.

Bard Praises Moratoria

New York Times

Taking bank holidays calmly, or even finding a bright side to them, would seem to be in the English-speaking tradition. It certainly goes as far back as Shakespeare, who discerned much beauty in dormant financial institutions. Thus Lorenzo points out to Jessica in "The Merchant of Venice":

"How sweet the moonlight sleeps upon this bank! Here will we sit and let the sounds of music Creep in our ears: soft stillness and the night Become the touches of sweet harmony. Sit, Jessica. Look how the floor of heaven Is thick inlaid with patines of bright gold. . . ."

That last line plainly bespeaks ultimate solvency. But even when the way out seemed to be only through liquidation, Oberon in "A Midsummer-Night's Dream" can see much charm in the situation:

"I know a bank where the wild thyme blows,
Where oxlips and the nodding violet grows. . . ."

THE FAME BUILDERS

I haven't a doubt
That when Caesar set out
On the iter to glory and fame,
Some bright and inspired
Young fellow he hired
Who knew the publicity game.
Though Julius was smart
At the conquering art,
And possessed of much mental agility,
His lasting renown
May be safely set down
To somebody's boosting ability.

Alexander the Great,
At an earlier date,
From their thrones a few emperors hurled,
And probably thought
That the battles he fought
Had made him the boss of the world.
But his "rep" doesn't rest
On the skill he possessed,
Nor his swarms of belligerent fighting men;
It was built through the years
Not by sabres and spears,
But by legions of underpaid writing men.

Poor old Eric the Red
Had no thought in his head
Of a continent over the sea;
He just cruised around
Where the fish might be found
Till Greenland loomed up on his lee.
No doubt the old tar,
As most fishermen are,
Was hardy and bold and industrious,
But he owed his great fame
To the lads in the game
Of writing. They made him illustrious.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

DEFLATING FARM MORTGAGES

I am a little surprised by the readiness with which some business leaders have suggested a drastic scaling down of farm mortgages as if farm mortgages were a problem apart from the debt problem that afflicts other producer classes and other productive enterprises.

The debt load generally, not among farmers alone, is straining the basic economic structure of the country.

Much of the existing debt load was created on artificial values that never existed save on paper or in the minds of men hypnotized by the hastily improvised philosophy of the new era which, as I have so often said, we now know was too old in character to be called new and too short in duration to be called an era.

Much of the existing debt load was incurred in terms of organizations and proceeds that have since gone obsolete or at least are rather far on the road of obsolescence.

No one who has even measurable contact with the current economic situation doubts that the debt load throughout our economic order is seriously handicapping national recovery.

An extensive writing down of obligations is going on quietly and unofficially all the time.

Creditors and debtors are getting together and effecting sensible adjustments.

We may find it necessary to do the job a bit more comprehensively.

And government may have to take a hand in the doing of the job.

But we shall be well advised I think, to move with the utmost care on proposals to scale down the obligations of any one class unless careful provision is made to anticipate and to discount the ramifications of such scaling down in other sections of the economic order.

I doubt that there is any justifiable half-way house between laissez-faire, supplemented by adequate mediation machinery to facilitate creditor-debtor negotiation, and a general down of obligations for all classes and all enterprises.

SUGGESTION

If teacher and parents only knew how strong the influence of their suggestions to children are, they would spend less time and energy on commands and more on discovering how to make hints effective. There is truth in the adage, "A hint is as good as a kick." Hints are not always expressed in words. They are far too subtle in their nature for such crude expression. A sigh, a smile, a wink, a gesture, and the thing is done. There has been registered in the mind of the child an idea for future use.

"Why, Simon, I thought you were going to stay for tea with grandma this evening." "I was but she didn't want me." "Nonsense. Don't talk that way about your grandmother. Of course she wanted you." "I'm not talking that way, ma. Gram was all right. She just didn't want me to stay tonight so I said good-bye and came along home." "Did she say she didn't want you?"

"Goodness, I'm not so dumb that she has to put me out of the house. No, of course not. I knew she did not want me and I came home. There's nothing to make a fuss about. She has a right not to want me to stay to tea, hasn't she?"

"What I'd like to know is why you say your grandmother did not want you to stay to tea when you admit that she did not say so. I think your imagination must be working overtime. Or maybe you didn't want to stay."

"I'd have stayed if Gram had wanted me to but she didn't. I know when I'm not wanted and it's quite all right with me." "Mother couldn't let it go at that so she called Gram on the telephone. "He's right. I sent him home because Jessie is coming for tea tonight and she dislikes boys and he would have been miserable. I didn't think it was necessary to tell him so. I just let him see that." "O," said mother. "I just wondered." Boys and girls have a trick of listening to what you think rather than to what you say. They know when you like them and when you don't. They know when you agree with them and when you do not. They are quick to feel that you are troubled, doubtful, afraid, and they respond to your feelings as the needle to the pole. They watch what you do and record it and when they are placed in a like situation they do as you did. Not that you said anything. Your manner, your behavior, your whole attitude suggested an idea and it caught.

Most of the teaching we do, the truly effective teaching is done indirectly and by suggestion. The tones of our voice, the quality of them, the expression of our faces, the movements of our body speak loudly though we remain unconscious of their influence.

When a child's behavior troubles you it might be well to search for the suggestion that is at work in his environment and attend to that rather than to the action itself which is usually but the symptom of the underlying condition. A hint is a powerful force though it be expressed by so slight a thing as a glance.

Miss May Strain of Fullerton, was home from overseas service as a Red Cross nurse at a base hospital in Edinburgh, Scotland. She had seen the Kaiser's fleet when it was turned over to the allies, and said it was a most impressive sight.
